Bat-the-Snowball Provides Wintertime Outdoor Fun

BY CAPPY DICK

Boys and girls who live where snow covers the ground can have a lot of fun playing "Bat-the-Snowball." It's a way to get some off-season batting and pitching practice.

Only two players are needed, one to act as the pitcher, the other as the batter. After 10 pitches, they change places, the pitcher becoming the batter and vice versa.

Both players should co-operate ter who has the highest score at the end is the winner.

Be sure the snowballs contain no ice, stones or other hard, dangerous objects that might fly and do damage when a snowball is struck and demolished.

Teacher Need Down in State

Instructor Ranks Increasing to Meet Demands

MADISON (AP)—The supply of high school and elementary school teachers in Wisconsin is moving closer to meeting demand, but the number of fully qualified instructors available still is down.

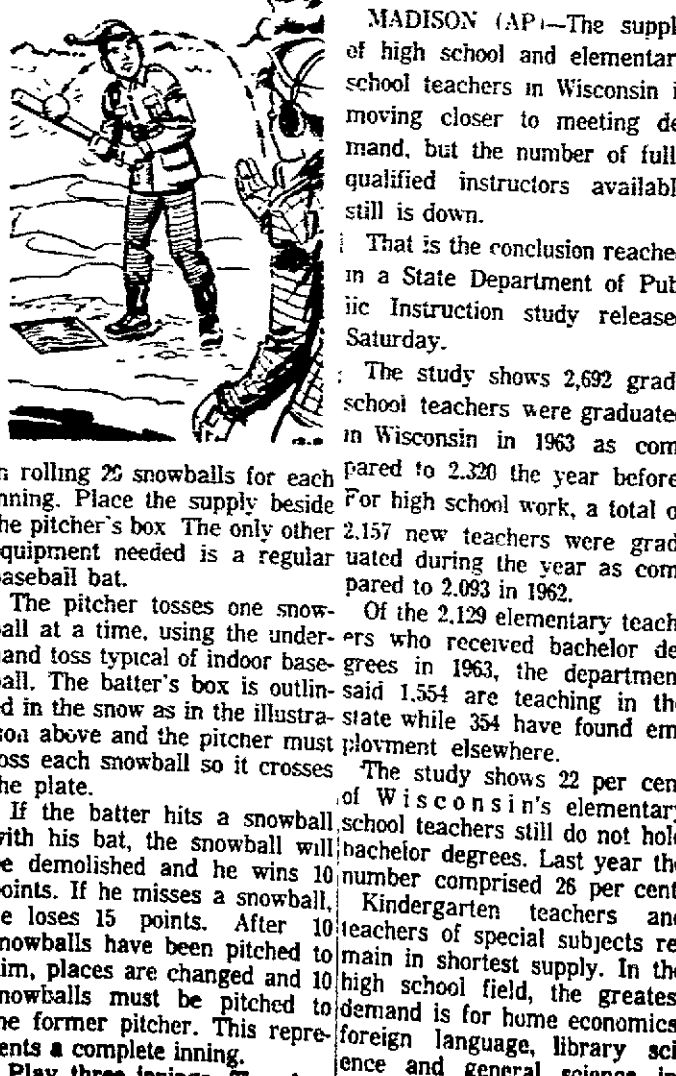

That is the conclusion reached in a State Department of Public Instruction study released Saturday.

The study shows 2,692 grade school teachers were graduated in Wisconsin in 1963 as compared to 2,320 the year before. For high school work, a total of 2,157 new teachers were graduated during the year as compared to 2,093 in 1962.

Of the 2,129 elementary teachers who received bachelor degrees in 1963, the department said 1,554 are teaching in the state while 354 have found employment elsewhere.

The study shows 22 per cent of Wisconsin's elementary school teachers still do not hold bachelor degrees. Last year the number comprised 26 per cent. Kindergarten teachers and snowballs have been pitched to him, places are changed and 10 high school field, the greatest demand is for home economics, foreign language, library science and general science instructors.

Kennedy Death Affects Youngsters, Oldsters Star on TV

Several Films With Political Bent Postponed or Changed, Scenes Cut

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Movie and television schedules continue to get a shaking up in the wake of President John F. Kennedy's assassination.

The tragedy came at a time when the movie companies were making several films on political matters, something that Hollywood had avoided in recent years.

"Dr. Strangelove," a satirical treatment of an atomic conflict between the Soviet Union and the United States starring Peter Sellers and George C. Scott, was originally scheduled for a premiere last week. It was postponed until Jan. 29, when it will open in New York, London and Toronto.

Another in Summer "Fall Safe," a straight-faced treatment of an atomic war with Henry Fonda as a young president, remains scheduled for summer release.

If Paramount had intentions of putting out "Seven Days in May" before year's end for Motion Picture Academy consideration, the idea has been abandoned. It will be released at the end of February. The film concerns a military attempt to take over the presidency and stars Fredric March, Kirk Douglas and Burt Lancaster.

"The Best Man" a study of convention politics, will be out in May and June. It has undergone several cuts of references to the Kennedys. Henry Fonda is a candidate in this one. "Take her, She's Mine," currently in release, had a few lines about the Kennedys cut.

No Gags

Warner's has scheduled "Kiss for My President" for election day, 1964. It stars Polly Bergen as the president and Fred MacMurray as her first man. The studio said there were no topical gags in it.

Warner's decision to withdraw "PT 109" from release has drawn a few complaints from citizens who would like to see the film of the late president's war heroism. As a spokesman pointed out, the necessity of ad-

Gov. Wallace To Speak at UW

MADISON (AP) — Gov. George Wallace of Alabama and Herbert Aptheker, a spokesman for the United States Communist party, have been added to the list of speakers who will address the University of Wisconsin symposium, Feb. 17-26.

Steve Sacher, general chairman of the annual symposium, said today both Wallace and Aptheker had accepted invitations to appear.

Wallace, a Democrat, came to national prominence when he resisted the federal administration's policy of school integration. Aptheker appeared on the Wisconsin campus in March and in a lecture criticized the McCarran Act as a "treasonous" threat to civil liberties. The act requires registration by organizations designated by the government as "Communist action" or "infiltrated" groups.

Good Crop Year for State Farmers but Below 1962 Production

MADISON (AP) — It was a good year for Wisconsin farm crops but production totals generally were somewhat below the levels of 1962, the State Crop Reporting Service said Saturday.

Corn production was set at 105 million bushels with yields per acre averaging 79 bushels, the same as last year. With 2 per cent less acreage available, however, the total crop was 2 per cent less than in 1962.

Both the yield and harvested acreage of oats was below 1962. Production was estimated at 120 million bushels or 6 per cent less than last year's crop.

Hay production, hit by extended dry weather, totaled almost 9 1/2 million tons, or about 1 1/2 million tons less than in 1962.

Actor Tom Tryon, Right, Shown with Italian actor Raf Vallone in a scene from "The Cardinal," in which Tryon has the title role, may become Hollywood's next big star.

Tryon was well known among movie and television producers but not by the public. Producer Otto Preminger chose him from 20 candidates for "The Cardinal," one of the best movie roles to come along in some time. (AP Wirephoto)

Nativity Music On Sunday's 'Perspective'

Lawrence College's next telecast in the "Perspective" series (Channel 5) will spotlight the 20-voice Lawrence Singers and conservatory instrumentalists in a performance of "Laud to the Nativity" by Ottorino Respighi, to be seen and heard at 5:30 p.m.

This is a change both in date and time from earlier announcement.

LaVahn Maesch, director of Lawrence Conservatory of music, will conduct the performance. Maesch regularly leads the college's Concert Choir, Lawrence Singers and Choral Society.

The featured work was written by the Italian composer in 1930, and intended as a staged cantata. It used the medium of music and a 15th or 16th century nativity tableau.

Three soloists highlight the work. The Angel is sung by Ann Ober, soprano, a senior from Hartford; The Virgin Mary is sung by Maribeth Kirchhoff, mezzo-soprano, a senior from Palatine, Ill.; The Shepherd is sung by Richard Vander Bloemen, tenor, a special conservatory student from Manitowish.

Assisting them are the choruses, representing Angels and Shepherds, and an instrumental ensemble of woodwinds, piano, and percussion.

Another brief program segment will include a performance of the Francis Poulenc "O Magnum Mysterium."

The telecast is sixth in a series of 16 half-hour programs by Lawrence faculty and students. Production for the series is done by the WFRV-TV Department of Community Affairs.

Johns Hopkins Professor Will Edit Ike Works

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — A history professor at Johns Hopkins University has been assigned the ten-year task of sorting and editing the mountain of papers amassed by Dwight D. Eisenhower, from the early days of his World War II leadership through his eight years as president.

Dr. Milton S. Eisenhower, brother of Dwight and president of the university, said the work will be done under the direction of Dr. Alfred D. Chandler Jr. and published by the University Press.

Chandler said the Eisenhower papers were "indispensable to the study of recent American history." He added that "without reference to these papers, no study of the United States or even the world during the past 2 1/2 decades can be definitive or complete."

The papers, including personal letters, minutes of Cabinets and other meetings, memos on conversations, positions and background papers and reports, now are stored in several locations.

Successful Charity Ball Marks Beginning of Gay, Festive Holiday Season in the Fox Cities

Scrolls Depicting the Magi Served as an attractive background for Charity Ball guests, who partied in modern holiday elegance Saturday evening at North Shore Golf Club. Enjoying the 31st Charity Ball are Karl Minkebig, Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Boldt, and Mrs. Minkebig. Mr. Minkebig designed the invitations for the party. Both couples have made the Charity Ball an important part of their holiday season for many years. Below, looking at gaily wrapped packages in an old-fashioned sleigh, are Mr. and Mrs. John Jaekels, Appleton, and Dr. and Mrs. George Dernbach, New London.

"One of the most festive Charity Balls in many years" was the description of Saturday evening's annual holiday event, held at North Shore Golf Club. Floor length ball gowns, in fabric as light as chiffon and deeply luxurious as brocade, were the rule, with party guests nodding to 'dame fashion' in their choice of party wear.

In keeping with the elegance of the women and the formal wear of the men, the club itself was dressed for the holidays, sparkling like a bright golden ornament. The tremendous tree in the lobby reached the ceiling with its many colored lights and ornaments of gold. The wreath over the fireplace mantel was of natural greens with della robia fruit, and an old-fashioned decorated sleigh added to the merriment of the Christmas-time event.

Cocktails, Dinner

The Ball, sponsored by the Infant Welfare Circle of the King's Daughters, was given this year for the 31st time. For many of the party-goers, it traditionally marks the beginning of the most gala season of the year. Many chose to begin the evening with dinner at the club, and several Dutch Treat cocktail parties were arranged there. Among those who entertained at pre-ball parties at their homes were Mr. and Mrs. John Jaekels; Mr. and Mrs. William H. Kellett; Neenah; Mr. and Mrs. William Buchanan, Menasha, who entertained at a cocktail supper party; Mr. and Mrs. John Reeve, and Mr. and Mrs. John Stevens.

Attend Every Year

Couples who continued their long support of the King's Daughters Foundation, recipient of Ball proceeds, were the Old Friends and New Ones enjoyed the party for charity Saturday evening. Above are Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Purdy, Mr. and Mrs. William H. Zuehlke and Mr. and Mrs. William M. Schutte. Many of the guests have attended the annual party for more than 15 years. Others have supported the project even when unable to attend. Former circle members, now living elsewhere, try to return to the Fox Cities for the event, a highlight of the Christmas social season.

F. D. Farvers, Oscar Boldt Jr., Bruce Purdy, Eric Lindbergs, Arthur Wakemans, Martin Knauers and V. I. Minahans.

Also enjoying the gaiety of the event, as they have for many years, were Dr. and Mrs. James Gmeiner, Mr. and Mrs. Karl Minkebig, Dr. and Mrs. Robert De Cock, Mr. and Mrs. D. K. Brown, Neenah; Mr. and Mrs. E. Robert Boen; Dr. and Mrs. Earl Fetting; Mr. and Mrs. William Zuehlke, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Benson, Mr. and Mrs. H. Donald Purdy and Mr. and Mrs. Guy McCoslin.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith McLandress were again among party guests, as were Mr. and Mrs. David Bailin, Dr. and Mrs. Marvin Kagan, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph McGowan and Mr. and Mrs. Dan Hardt. Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth DuVall Sr., Chicago, also arrived in the Fox Cities for the charity event. Mrs. DuVall is a former member of the Circle. Mrs. F. Stansbury Young was chairman of this year's successful Charity Ball. She was assisted by Mrs. George Cameron as co-chairman, and Mrs. Henry Bailey, Russell Bauman, Jack R. Benton, Henry Boon, Potter V. Park, Chester I. Perschbacher, Chandler W. Rowe, William Schubert and J. Treat Thomas.

Saturday evening's Ball, carried out to the melody of beautiful music, an elegant setting and the warmth of the Christmas spirit, will help the Circle continue its program of worthwhile community endeavor.

Mr. and Mrs. David Mayer, arrived at North Shore Golf Club in a festive spirit, right in keeping with the elegant party gowns worn by the women and the holiday atmosphere of the club.

Three Patient Men, Looking somewhat like forgotten bridegrooms, waited for their wives, members of the sponsoring Infant Welfare Circle of the King's Daughters. Circle members were busy throughout the evening attending to details of the party, and their husbands took their relegation to the background quite cheerfully. They are George Cameron, whose wife was co-chairman; F. Stansbury Young, husband of the chairman, and Chandler Rowe, whose wife was publicity chairman. (Post-Crescent Photos)

Your Problems

Seated Bus Riders Advised to Prepare for Obvious Hazards

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am just one of millions of Americans who rides to work on the bus every day. Since so many people who battle buses read your column on the way to work I can think of no better place to register my complaint.

I board the bus at one of the first stops so I always get a seat. Within ten minutes the bus is jammed and there are almost as many people standing as sitting.

The women who are standing always ask the seated passengers to hold their lunches, purses, shopping bags, last Thursday I got grease spots on my officer of a well-known company skirt from a leaky lunch can. We entertained couples bag. Yesterday I got a nice streak of mud on my coat because a lady had set her purse ago. The guests were all peo-

This morning a young mother asked me if I would mind out of control. holding her child. Yeah — you

I guessed it. What do you suggest? — Sitting Duck

Dear Duck: It takes an extraordinary brand of nerve to ask a stranger to hold parcels, purses, lunches and children, but people will continue to do it so long as there are people.

Carry a piece of plastic sheeting about the size of a small towel in your purse. This will protect your clothing against leaky lunches and muddy purses. Now about the last catastrophe — a woman with a baby in her arms should have been offered a seat. You had that coming, Toots.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I need to know what to do — if I have to hold their lunches, purses anything. Here is the story: My husband is the chief executive officer of a well-known company since he obviously "forgot" to have the calls charged to his home phone.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I was deeply disturbed at your lambasting clubs and organizations that get people acquainted through the mail I was considering getting in touch with phone bill. The total was a staggering $138. The itemization indicated three long distance calls across the continent, and two calls outside of the United States — all placed the night of our party. I phoned the telephone company and denied knowledge of these calls. They said they would check.

Today I received a letter listing the recipients of the telephone calls. They are all women friends of one married man. My husband knows the guest who made the calls.

What, in your opinion, should be done? — The Hostess

Dear Hostess — With the Mess On The Bill:

Your husband should mail the bill and a note to the playboy of the western world requesting that he send his check to the phone company since he obviously "forgot" to have the calls charged to his home phone.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope through the mail I was considering getting in touch with such an organization myself. My husband passed away three years ago and I am terribly lonely.

The organization I had in mind sounds very respectable. It calls itself a scientific foundation for mate selection. This particular organization seemed especially high-type to me because it is run by a medical doctor.

If such outfits can be dangerous, as you claim, how do they get away with it? Please reply in your column. Thank you. — Fort Wayne, Indiana

Dear Wayne: Though most physicians are competent and dedicated it would be foolish to assume that every doctor is highly principled, ethical or well-motivated.

Use your head. Women, mate-finding agencies (they can call themselves scientific foundations or what have you) are not in business simply because they're a bunch of good kids. Wake up and smell the coffee.

Ann Landers' frank and informative new book, "Teen-Agers and Sex" ($2.95), is now available at your book store.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope through the mail I was considering getting in touch with

Camelot Costumes, Sets 'Most Lavish'

No musical in the history of production cost close to $1,000, touring shows is as lavish as the production of "Camelot," which will play at Appleton High School this evening.

Fabrics for the more than 100 costumes in the show, including 10 magnificent creations for production. The gloves worn by Guenevere, played by Jeannie Carson, are made up of silks imported from India, antique silks, velvet, lightweight wools and organza and patterned upholstery materials.

Costume designer Stanley Simmons and his staff of 40 spent 500 hours putting together 3,300 yards of material for the costumes. Included in the elaborate ensembles are six suits of armor which had to be specially made by an expert in the field, specializing in creating leg armor, chest armor, helmets and other metallic-type items. The armor alone for the

Gold and Mink Trim
In addition to the armor and the elegant, flowing robes adorning women in the chorus and the leading ladies, some 300 feet of gold chain is used in the production. The gloves worn by players are gauntlets, trimmed with gold and cuffs of mink. The shoes and boots were specially created for the Lerner-Loewe musical by a theatrical bootmaker in New York City, for the bus and truck tour.

"In order to have the legs and feet in one color," designer Simmons said, "the shoes are dyed to match the dresses and the stockings are all dyed to the color of the shoes."

Hats in the production presented an enormous problem in the terms of the road tour. They are field, specializing in creating great tall cone-shaped leg armor, chest armor, helmets or huge, round ones, with mink trim or with veils dropping to the floor. Spacious crates had to be specially made in order to keep the headwear in good shape while traveling on the road.

All the swords, chain mail, shields and jousting sticks—long poles used in the jousting scene—are taken care of by prop people, not costume staff.

The opening number's colors resemble the big, bright, stones of a royal crown. The colors are jewel tones of amethyst, ruby, topaz, emerald and sapphire, set against a winter backdrop of ice.

25 Shades of Green
The next number is the "Maying Scene," which, traditionally, is done in green and white. However, there are as many shades of green as there are people on the stage—25—and those verdant pastoral tones are contrasted with the only other color on stage, a cantaloupe melon hue, color of the dress worn by Queen Guenevere.

In the jousting scene, the clothes look like those of chess people; the stage is full of big blocks of color, mostly blues and reds and whites and blacks. And in the final first act scene in the Great Hall, scores of shades of red are seen, ranging from a very pale to a wine color.

The historical period for "Camelot," based on the King Arthur Legend as depicted in White's book, "The Once and Future King," is the 12th Century. Costume designer Simmons did considerable research on English and French costumes of that century from the best available books in the field to give the sumptuous production an authentic quality.

Altar Society Entertained at Annual Supper

DARBOY—St. Anne Altar Society was entertained by children of Holy Angel School at its annual Christmas potluck supper Tuesday in the school hall. The program included songs and music on the accordion and organ.

The Rev. William Rickert, pastor, and the Sisters of St. Francis of the Holy Cross were party guests. The society presented them with gifts. The group donated to the Dominican Republic Mission where the Rev. Raymond Conard, formerly of the Green Bay Diocese, is stationed. Baby clothing was donated for the Pope's stroller.

Secretaries Club Holds Holiday Party

The Christmas dinner meeting of the National Secretaries Association (International) took place Tuesday evening at the Michigan Room of the Conway Hotel. A cocktail hour preceded the dinner.

A short business meeting was held and seven new members initiated. Roger LaBerge presented a musical program. The group sang Christmas carols and gifts were exchanged.

The committee was composed of Mrs. Leo VanDrasek, Kimberly, chairman, Miss Marie Bohm, Kaukatna, Miss Martha Welhouse, Kaukatna, and Mrs. James Kranzusch.

Completing their year's projects recently were members of the Appleton Altrusa Club, who visited St. Elizabeth Hospital and the Appleton City Home with their Christmas projects. Above, with toys used to stock the Toy Carts, are Sister M. Kathleen, Hospital Administrator; Julie Gibbons, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Gibbons; Tim Ziokellski, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sylvester Ziokellski; Miss Ethel Bloomer, chairman of the Altrusa Toy Cart Committee; Sister M. Raphael, supervisor of the children's ward; Diane Doell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arly W. Doell, Mrs. Frank Babcock and Mrs. Helen Nagel, members of the Toy

Altrusans Cap Year Of Civic Endeavor

Members of the Appleton Altrusa Club capped their year's program of civic interest by completing their Christmas projects at St. Elizabeth Hospital, Riverview Sanatorium and the Appleton City Home.

At St. Elizabeth Hospital, the club annually donates toys to fill two toy carts, a project originated by the club. Miss Ethel Bloomer is chairman of the program this year, assisted by Mrs. Frank Babcock, Mrs. Gordon Kisslinger and Mrs. Helen Nagel.

Also carried out during the holiday season is a book project at Riverview Sanatorium. New books, novels, mysteries and magazines have been given to the hospital, with Mrs. Melvin Leitzke as chairman. She has been assisted by Mrs. Marcell Rademacher, Miss Grace Gilman and Mrs. Robert Lauer.

Residents of the Appleton City Home each receive individual Christmas gifts from the Altrusa Club each year. The club visits the home on the fourth Thursday of each month throughout the year, providing programs that interest the residents. They are also remembered on special holidays and their birthdays. Mrs. Gerald Schleis and Mrs. Lloyd Doerfler have been chairman of the project in 1963.

A New Project
A new project was added to the Altrusa agenda this year. Members gave the Salvation Army a holiday assist by manning the College Avenue Christmas buckets Tuesday evening. The blind are helped through the sale of lightweight colored brooms, under the direction of Mrs. C. F. Hatch, Mrs. George Hoffer and Mrs. C. J. Puetz, and jewelry, sold by Miss Genevieve Morrell.

Gifts are also presented to patients at Winnebago County Hospital. A pledge of $1,000 to the St. Elizabeth Hospital Modernization Fund has been completed.

Altrusa sponsors a girl Badger Girls' State, held each June in Madison, and has adopted an 11-year-old Vietnamese Girl through the Foster Parent Plan.

Toward Civic Need
All proceeds from Altrusa projects go toward civic programs, two International Projects, the Founders Fund and Grants-in-Aid. One of the new international projects is the Bricks for Freedom Foundation.

The Income Project co-chairmen, Mrs. Thomas A. Davis and Mrs. H. W. Hansen have set up a candy sales program, carried out by Senior Active Members, Mrs. Babcock, Mrs. John Engle Jr., Mrs. George Stutz and Mrs. Nellie C. Wells. Serving on this committee are Mrs. W. P. Jones, Miss Mary Beth Kuester, Miss Rose Liethen and Mrs. Ray Plamann.

Good Fellowship chairman Mrs. Engle is assisted by Miss Marie Byrne and Mrs. C. F. Hatch.

WIFE IS HURT

Dear Louise: My husband has been in the penitentiary since last spring. Almost all of the Christmas cards were addressed to me, not to us both. This hurts. Have friends and relatives forgotten my husband already? I didn't send out any cards this year, but when I do, would it be all right for me to sign both our names? When answering this in the paper, please don't use my name, initials or the city where I live.

Louise Davis Answers:
You can be sure that your friends and relatives meant well and had no intentions of hurting you. They undoubtedly thought that cards addressed to Mr. and Mrs. might give you added pang, so they were trying to be thoughtful and considerate. I admit it would have been better if it would have been better messages includes him too.

Betrothal of Daughter Announced

MENASHA—The engagement of Miss Carol Mary Smarzinski to August A. Wyman has been announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward L. Smarzinski, route 1, Menasha. Mr. Wyman is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Wyman, 107 E. Forest Ave., Neenah.

The bride-elect is employed as a receptionist at the Geo. A. Whiting Paper Co., Menasha. Her fiancé is employed at Marathon Division of American Can Co.

for friends to get carefully worded cards such as the religious kind or those with serious messages, thus avoiding the word "happy" for both Christmas and the New Year. Then you could have compiled a list of the senders to pass on to your husband in one of your letters or during a visit with him at the penitentiary. Yes, by all means include both your names on the cards you send next year. I am sure you will tell your husbands, so they were trying to be band of your plans so that he will know that the Christmas messages includes him too.

Children Doomed; Future Hope for Research, Cure

By BEN LAIME
ST. LOUIS (AP) — Blond Susan Marie Lietz, 2, stumbles a lot and her brother Kevin, 3, can hardly move. They have Niemann-Pick disease—a rare affliction which deteriorates children's bodies and brings certain death.
"It's frightful that Susan might not be with us next Christmas," said her mother.
Niemann-Pick Disease is a child's malady so rare that the American Medical Association knows of only 23 cases in the United States and about 80 in the world. Two of the victims are the only children of Mr. and Mrs. John Lietz, Berkeley, Mo., a suburb of St. Louis.
Mrs. John Lietz, "and our little Kevin hasn't much of a chance to make it this year."
The father added:
"The hours drag by now, but we try to remain cheerful for our daughter's sake. Kevin almost left us a few weeks back when he contracted pneumonia. The plucky little guy made it, but we have to feed him through a nose tube now."

Snow, Ice Blamed for Road Mishaps

One Person Hurt As Driver Loses Control of Car

One person was injured and several cars received more than $100 damage in three accidents on slippery Appleton streets over the weekend.

Mary Kay Schwalenberg, 19, 134 W. Appleton St., complained of bumps and bruises on her right side after being in a one-car crash at 1529 N. Appleton St. at 10:15 p.m., Saturday.

The car in which she was riding, driven by Michael D. Hanna, 19, 620 W. Superior St., went out of control, skidded to the left side of the street and into two trees, police said.

Cars driven by Richard Krueger, 25, 714 N. Durkee St., and Eric A. Peotter, 63, 402 E. Spring St., collided at the intersection of Durkee and Winnebago streets at 7:15 a.m., Sunday.

Tried to Stop

Police said Krueger's car was going north on Durkee Street and Peotter's west on Winnebago Street when both drivers attempted to stop their vehicles at the intersection, and the cars skidded on packed snow.

The Autos driven by Eugene C. Gruentzel, 35, 517 E. Wilson St., and Robert P. Glatz, 25, 2507 S. Jackson St., collided in the 1400 block of S. Jackson Street at 11:55 a.m., Sunday.

Order Gives Appleton Okay on Franklin, Washington Streets Extension; 1 Year Deadline Set

BY WILLIAM C. CAREY
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

The Wisconsin Public Service Commission today authorized grade crossings requested by the City of Appleton for the extension of Franklin and Washington Streets.

An order was issued by the PSC at Madison this morning and sent to officials of the city and the Chicago and North Western Railroad.

The PSC decision came as a victory for the city. The railroad opposed the establishment of the new grade crossings, claiming that Appleton has too many.

Still pending before the PSC is a petition by the railroad to have several crossings closed summer in the City of Appleton.

In addition to giving the city the green light to proceed with the street extension project, which has been talked about for years, the commission ordered the railroad to install the crossing signals.

Condition Made

The city was ordered to pay $8,000 as its share of the cost in making the installations.

There was one condition included in the ruling that caught city officials by surprise.

The commission said Appleton had to have the street extensions constructed and grade ready within a year from the date of the issuance of the order, dated Dec. 20.

City Planner-Traffic Engineer Walter Rasmussen and Public Works Director Robert W. Bues conferred at city hall shortly after a copy of the PSC finding was filed with City Clerk Elden Broehm.

Bues and other officials rightly interpreted the PSC order that the city would have to start work on the project, expected to cost $300,000 to $350,000, thus eliminating a traffic problem that has plagued Appleton's downtown area over a period of several years.

The common council did put about $70,000 in the budget to acquire some right-of-way that will be needed for the street extensions.

It is likely the PSC finding will be deliberated within a week by the council's street-sanitation committee, board of public works and the city plan commission.

There are no definite plans for where the extended streets will route. A final survey will have to be made of the area, followed by preparation of layouts and actual street and grade crossing designs.

Once the city starts construction of the street extensions, one thing is certain—the free parking lot on the north side of Washington Street will go. That portion of land purchased some time ago by the city, will have to be utilized for street purposes.

'Part of Street'

"The parking lot will definitely become a part of the new street," Bues commented.

The city already owns three

New Group to Assist Mentally Handicapped Being Organized

A group is being formed in the Fox Cities area to help provide additional services for mentally handicapped and emotionally ill persons.

The first planning session was held at city hall this week with people from agencies throughout Outagamie County in attendance.

The group discussed existing facilities and future services that might be provided for the emotionally ill or retarded.

Of special interest to the volunteer workers were those handicapped and limited people in the young adult age group.

Mrs. Kyle Ward, president of the Outagamie County Mental Association, volunteered her services to coordinate the group's activities.

Another meeting will be held in January and representatives of any interested agencies are invited to attend.

Who better than a child can define Christmas?

Who can see more clearly the joy, the love, the excitement, the humor, the tenderness, the magic and the meaning that is Christmas?

Christmas was put into words by the children of Richmond School this month. The stories and poems that came from the creative writing project in all six grades were read each Friday on the school intercom by the children and compiled in the Christmas bulletin for parents.

Maybe you, too, would like to share them.

Grade Schoolers Define Christmas

CANDLES: When you try making Christmas candles you better have the men in white standing by. Mom pours the wax in the mold and suddenly it decides it doesn't want to hold the wax and it bursts open and pours all over the floor.

Well, all these things work out in the end and we have a very Merry Christmas despite boo-boos.

"Christmas" by Judy Cardin, Primary III:

When I think of Christmas I think of all the nice toys we get. But why should we get toys on Jesus' Birthday? What I think of most is the happy faces on the people that receive presents. But I also think of poor children and adults who have sad faces because they don't get one little present.

"Christmas" by Paul Sumnicht, Primary III:

"Santa Claus gets ready like we do. He gets Dasher, Dancer, Prancer, Vixen, Comet, Cupid, Donner, Blitzen and Rudolph hitched up to a sled. He has a sack that carries about one billion toys or more. He likes to know you're nice. He doesn't like to know you're bad. He has 12 helpers. The helpers build one billion toys or more."

"What Christmas Means to Me" by Catherine Bungert, Intermediate III:

Christmas means the birth of the Savior. It means the gathering of the relation. It means singing, happiness and joy for everyone. On Christmas I feel happier. I feel like dancing, singing and making others feel the same. I don't like Christmas just because I get presents. I also like it because I can give presents to others. I can give them presents and make them happier, too. But when I get something from someone I know they love me very much.

"Christmas" by Karen Cover, Primary II:

Christmas is fun and joy and cheer.

Christmas is people and food.

The true Christmas was way back at Jesus' birth but nowadays Santa Claus comes, and we decorate the trees.

It is not like the first Christmas at all.

But Jesus' birth is still in our hearts.

All together now — Three cheers for Christmas!

Hip-Hip Hooray!

P.S. I love Christmas!

Marathon Installs Clarifier To Improve Mill Water Supply

NEENAH — A new clarifier — half a football field in diameter — to improve the water borrowed from the Fox River by Marathon Division of American Can Co. for its Green Bay mill is being readied for probable startup next spring.

Clarified water is used in the mill for pulp and paper making. After the water is used, a special effluent system, including a pumping station and pipeline, transports the used water to settling basins, where suspended solids are settled out before the water returns to the bay. Described in the current issue of "Maralog," employee publication, the clarifier tank is 150 feet in diameter and 25 feet high. Its circular wall, 11 inches thick, is at the bottom and 8 inches thick at the top, consists of a corrugated metal base imbedded in concrete. The concrete, rather than being poured, was pressure-sprayed.

Increase Water Supply

Purpose of the clarifier and allied equipment installed for the water intake system is to increase the supply of purified water readily available for use in the pulp and paper mill operations.

The clarification system involves borrowing the river water, screening it, chemically and mechanically removing impurities in the clarifier, then routing the water to a storage basin where the water remains ready for use in the mill.

The effluent system is part of a mid-1960 stream improvement installation that cost $1 million. In total, Marathon's Green Bay mill has stream improvement facilities and installations representing expenditures of $3 million.

Waste Wood Chips Vital in Pulp Making

NEENAH — The dramatic increase in the use of wood chips for the pulpmaking process — wood chips procured from sawmills which formerly regarded chips as "waste" — is told in the current issue of "Maralog," employee magazine of the Marathon Division of American Can Co.

Marathon, as well as many other pulp producers in the United States and Canada, formerly concentrated on the harvest, or purchase, of pulpwood logs, also known as roundwood. Then, the short lengths of pulpwood were fed into mechanical chippers to be cut into chips for pulpmaking.

"Waste" Wood
Today, although logs still constitute over 70 per cent of the wood supply needed by Marathon mills, the use of procured chips is rapidly occupying a position of importance in Marathon's operations. Its mill at Marathon, Canada, for example, is the largest user of "waste" wood chips in the Province of Ontario.

Use of "waste" wood chips by pulp mills also is beneficial to forest conservation. By using the wood that sawmills formerly burned, or otherwise disposed of, an equivalent amount of timber can remain uncut in the woodlands.

Furthermore, "the forest products industry is able to more fully utilize the basic log. Estimates vary on this, but figures cite 15 per cent to 25 per cent more usage" than that attained when sawmills formerly disposed of their "waste".

Extra Revenue
With realization that wood chips are basic to the pulp industry, sawmills began to equip themselves with the proper chip-pieces of property needed for the street project, and it has offers from three other owners who want to sell. Some fractional parts of properties along the proposed new street route will also have to be acquired by the city.

Rasmussen and Bues admitted the city has now been put in a time bind.

In its arguments before the commission examiner, the city contended the new grade crossings and street extensions were of immediate necessity for traffic safety's sake.

The PSC concurred in its finding, and went as far as to order the city to have the work done within 12 months.

Mayor Out
Mayor Clarence Mitchell was out of his office and could not be reached for comment. City and civic leaders generally hailed the commission's ruling as a victory for the city.

However, the railroad has 60 days to appeal to the PSC or take court action.

The common council will have to find money to pay for the bond on a charge of drunkenness extensions, which could cost $400,000 at the most.

Once the city completes the extensions, it will then be in a position to redesign and rebuild unknown persons attempting to cash checks.

Papers found on Phillips included identification cards and membership cards with the name of Paul R. Wilson, Davis, Iowa. Menasha police also said Phillips is believed to be wanted in other Wisconsin and Minnesota cities.

the College Avenue business district. The latter project also has been on the planning boards for sometime.

PSC Orders
The commission specifically ordered that:

—The city and railroad establish a grade crossing at Franklin and Washington streets extended, with the North Western installing and maintaining automatic signals.

—The city at its expense construct approaches to the track-ends of the two crossings, provide necessary drainage facilities and pay the railroad $8,000 as its share of the work.

—Complete cost estimates of a crossing circuit plan be submitted by the North Western to the PSC.

—The crossings and signals shall be installed not later than one date year from date of the order.

Man Forfeits Bond on Drunkenness Charge
Charles Skenadore, 228½ E. Wisconsin Ave., forfeited $25 to find money to pay for the bond on a charge of drunkenness Saturday. He posted the bond at the Appleton police station.

NEENAH — Mayor Carl E. Loehning announced today that offices in city hall will close for the Christmas holiday Tuesday at noon and re-open Thursday morning.

Oshkosh Driver, 19, Fined $300

Defendant Pleads No Contest to Charge Of Drunken Driving

OSHKOSH—Eugene J. Kuroski, 19, 14 W. Smith Ave., Oshkosh, was fined $150 and costs for drunken driving and $150 and costs for resisting arrest when arraigned before County Judge James Sitter Monday.

Judge Sitter provided that two alternative terms of 60 days each would run concurrently if the fines were not paid.

Kuroski was arrested by Menasha police at 1:18 a.m. Sunday after his car hit a parked car on Naymut Street in Menasha. The youth pleaded no contest to both charges.

Kuroski's car collided with one driven by Royal Gooding, 379 Naymut St., Menasha, at 1:30 a.m. today, traveled 630 feet after the collision and struck a utility pole, which was knocked 15 feet off its base. The vehicle then traveled 45 feet further before coming to a stop in the road in the 400 block of Naymut Street.

Police said Kuroski told the arresting officer he had to get out of the patrol car, because he was ill. Outside the car Kuroski allegedly started a fight which lasted until a passing motorist stopped and assisted the officer.

After Kuroski was subdued and a second officer dispatched to assist, Kuroski reportedly began another fight on the way to the station. The officer driving the squad car reported he was kicked between the shoulder blades.

Kuroski was taken to Appleton where he was tested for drunkenness; then to Oshkosh where he again began fighting with officers and had to be forcibly restrained.

Peterson Speaks of New 'Favorite Son'

Knowles, GOP Gubernatorial Candidate, Added Possibility For Wisconsin 1964 Primary

BY PAUL CLIFFORD
MILWAUKEE (AP) — State Republican Chairman Talbot Peterson suggested for the first time Sunday night someone other than Rep. John W. Byrnes as a possible favorite son GOP presidential candidate in Wisconsin's 1964 primary.

Peterson added the name of Warren Knowles, the only announced Republican candidate for governor, to the list. The chairman said Byrnes or Knowles or someone else could be picked as a favorite son to head a list of candidates for election as uncommitted delegates to the Republican national convention.

Peterson said in a telephone interview from his home in Appleton he had not discussed the possibility with Knowles.

For Byrnes
Knowles, a former Republican lieutenant governor, said, "I'm for John Byrnes as a favorite son candidate. I'm going to be a candidate for governor. I would not like to make any other comment until Byrnes has made a decision."

The discussion of favorite son possibilities came up as Peterson repeated that seven possible contenders for the Republican presidential nomination would be asked officially to stay out of Wisconsin's April primary.

"The plan is the thing," Peterson said. "The name of the favorite son is of secondary importance. The whole idea was something we call the 'Wisconsin plan for victory in November.'"

Favorite Son
Until Sunday, Byrnes had been the only publicly discussed possibility as a favorite son candidate, but Peterson said that Knowles has been mentioned in party circles as another choice.

Byrnes had planned to announce his decision on making the race early in December but postponed the announcement until the first of the year after the assassination of President Kennedy.

New Circumstances
Peterson said that because of "the new set of circumstances in Washington I don't know now" what decision Byrnes might make. The chairman said he expected Byrnes to become and, deeply involved in congressional activity on the programs of sand.

Attempt to Steal Church Money Ends With 4 Deaths

OTTAWA (AP)—Four persons each had two guns and masks were shot to death Sunday when two armed brothers apparently tried to steal the collection boxes from a Roman Catholic rectory in Ottawa while Mass was being celebrated in the church next door. A fifth person was wounded slightly.

Police said there was no money in the rectory.
Police said Roger Binette, 21, shot and killed himself after police and parishioners cornered him and his brother, Reginald, 17, in an upper floor of the rectory.

One Surrenders
A detective persuaded Reginald to surrender after parishioners surrounded the building. Reginald was charged with capital murder and if convicted will get a life prison sentence. Minors cannot be hanged for capital murder in Canada.

The youths' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leo Binette, were attending noon Mass in the Church of Christ the King. The father rushed with other men in the congregation to the rectory and ducked back as bullets flew. He did not know who was inside.

The shooting also took the lives of Paul Mercer of Sherbrooke, Que., scoutmaster of the Parish's Boy Scout troop, Albert Guindon, about 45, housekeeper and niece of the parish priest, the Rev. Guillaume Chevrier, and Doralise Bechard, 65, who shared a second-floor apartment in the rectory with her sister.

Police said they did not fire a shot. They said the brothers

Stevenson Will Not Seek Demo Vice Presidency

Says He Would Run If He Is Asked by President Johnson

NEW YORK (AP)—Adlai E. Stevenson says he won't seek the Democratic nomination for vice president but he'll run if President Johnson asks him, and if "it was both compatible with my health and any other considerations."

Stevenson, U. S. ambassador to the United Nations, added that Johnson hadn't asked him.

"The President will make his decision as to whom he wants to run for vice president with him probably not until the time of the Democratic convention next August, after the Republicans have selected their ticket," said Stevenson in a television interview (NBC's "Meet the Press").

"So it seems to me totally premature at this time to be speculating about whom he might choose."

Story Shaping About William Scranton

BY RELMAN MORIN

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP)—An intriguing mystery story—call it "Spotlight on the Sphinx"—is taking shape around William Warren Scranton, the personable young governor of Pennsylvania.

"I don't want to be president of the United States," he said, firmly, in an interview. "I can't conceive of any circumstances in which I would run."

He added in one of the strongest disclaimers of interest in the near Harrisburg. Scranton gave this version of Eisenhower's statements:

However, in a news conference, Scranton said former President Dwight D. Eisenhower has urged him to give "deep or thought" to the question of being a candidate.

Thousands of Candles Mark End of Mourning

BY BARRY SCHWEID

Associated Press Sports Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Thousands of candles burned brightly in the gathering dusk of Washington as the nation ended a month's mourning for John F. Kennedy.

Sheltered against a biting wind on winter's first day, they symbolized that the late President's ideals are still aglow in the world.

President Costless
Bareheaded and coatless Sunday night, President Johnson told more than 14,000 gathered at the Lincoln Memorial and the nation by radio and television.

"Thirty days and a few Cabinet officers, Supreme Court justices and other dignitaries," Kennedy said. "As it was 100 years ago, so it is now, a martyr's death. The world will not forget address what he did here. He will live on in our hearts, which will be but not in purpose. We buried his shrine."

Thus, with the rhythm of Lincoln's Gettysburg Address, their dreams of their visions."

Solemn Service
To set in motion the solemn symbolic service at the Lincoln Memorial, three religious leaders — representing the Protestant, Roman Catholic and Jewish faiths—lit a torch from the eternal flame near Kennedy's grave in Arlington National Cemetery.

An open jeep carried them across the Memorial Bridge to the monument, where the torch was used to kindle Johnson's candle and then those held by justices and other dignitaries. "As it was 100 years ago, so it is now, a martyr's death. The world will not forget address what he did here. He will live on in our hearts, which will be but not in purpose. We buried his shrine."

Thus, with the rhythm of Lincoln's Gettysburg Address, their dreams of their visions."

He said the national scene now was such that he felt a number of persons thought I should be the candidate and that he thought I ought to give a good deal of thought to this matter and think deeply on the subject in view of the change in current circumstances national-

"He said some very complimentary things about me personally and my work here in the state. He was very kind about this and suggested that I give deeper thought to it than he believed I had in the past."

State Agency Directors to Stay on Job

Salary Prospects Dimmed by Ruling Of Supreme Court

MADISON (AP)—The directors of two state agencies said Sunday they would stay on the job for the present even though their prospects of getting paid were dimmed by the State Supreme Court ruling on appointive powers.

The two are Howard E. Koop, head of the Department of Administration, and Frank P. Zeidler, director of the Department of Resource Development.

Court Ruling

Under the high court ruling made Friday, Koop and Zeidler will not go back on the state payroll until their status is clarified by the court's documented decision, expected in January.

Main opponents in the dispute are Democratic Gov. John W. Reynolds and the Republican-controlled Senate.

"I feel I have to stay with this job, Zeidler, said, even though he doesn't expect to be paid until February, "if at all."

Less Certain

Koop was less certain about remaining on the job indefinitely without pay. He said he would "have to consider" looking for a new job if the court later decided the governor couldn't reappoint him.

The high court ruled that the governor was not authorized to replace holdover incumbents in state jobs unless the new appointments were approved by the Senate.

Salaries for Koop and Zeidler were held up by State Treasurer Dena Smith on the advice of Attorney Gen. George Thompson after the Senate refused to confirm the paid.

Hearden Wins Starting Job With Badgers

Erickson Searching For Added Strength On Backboards

MADISON (AP) — Wisconsin basketball Coach Johnny Erickson says there may be trouble ahead for his Badgers, who have only a tournament date remaining before the opening of the Big Ten season.

The Badgers completed one tournament appearance Saturday night, losing 90-67 to Princeton in overtime in the consolation game of the Kentucky Invitational at Lexington.

Erickson said Sunday the Badgers' future depends upon how well they get the ball off the backboard, explaining, "Unless we can rebound better we're in for a lot of trouble."

"I'm playing the best men I have," Erickson continued. "We're getting the maximum effort from them. There aren't any others I can turn to."

Control Ball

The coach indicated he had weighed prospects of playing control ball but said he felt that wasn't the solution. "Our best chance," he said, "has to be to keep running, and somehow find ways to get that second shot."

Erickson said his Badgers played good basketball in the Friday night game with Kentucky except for a five-minute lapse that opened the way to a 108-85 victory. But on Saturday night against Princeton, Erickson said the Badgers were flat. Helping to flatten the Badgers, who took their fourth defeat.

2 Skiers Picked For U. S. Nordic Olympic Squad

WENATCHEE, Wash. (AP) — Two young skiers from Lake Placid, N.Y., were chosen Sunday for the U.S. Nordic combined Olympic team as the jumping phase ended at nearby Leavenworth.

Jim Page, 22-year-old Dartmouth graduate, was one. Jim Shea, 25, who grew up with Page and is a graduate of Denver University, was the other. They were selected on their combined performance in cross-country racing and jumping.

Steve Rieschl of Aspen, Colo., won Sunday's jumping, but he was so far down in cross-country racing that he failed to qualify for the team.

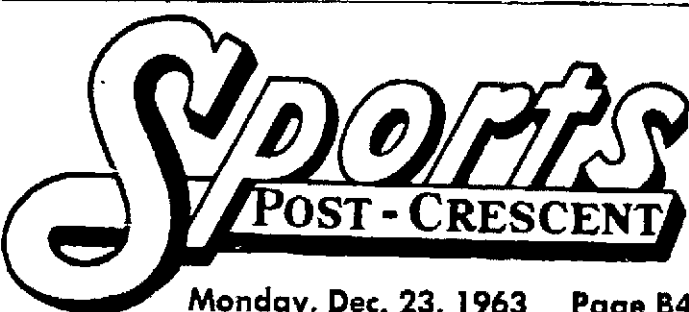

The cross-country qualifying ended last Thursday.

Halfback Clem Daniels (36) of the Oakland Raiders lost a yard on this play in the second quarter Sunday at Oakland against the Houston Oilers. In on the action are Oilers' tackle Ed Hussmann (82) and linebackers Gene Babb (33) and Doug Cline (31). Oakland defeated Houston, 52-49, and finished second in the Western Division of the American Football League. (AP Wirephoto)

Bays Lose Draftees Morris and Burrell; Earl Falck Retires

GREEN BAY — The Packers aren't in the habit of losing, but maybe today is an exception. Departing from the Green Bay scene today are Earl Falck, ticket director who announced his retirement, and two high draft choices—Jon Morris and Ode Burrell, both of whom signed with clubs in the American League.

Falck, ducat chief since 1957 when the Bays moved into new city stadium, will retire at the end of 1963. He has been associated with Packer ticket affairs since the early 1920s and became a full time Packer employee in 1942.

Earl will be succeeded by Merrill Knowlton, who began work as Falck's assistant in 1957.

Rams' Pardee On West Team For Pro Bowl

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Lone-backer Jack Pardee of the Los Angeles Rams was added Sunday to the West squad for the all-star Pro Bowl football game Jan. 12. He replaces Joe Schmidt of the Detroit Lions.

Pardee, 6-foot-2 and 225 pounds, was named to the Associated Press all-star National Football League team this year. Schmidt, nursing injuries, informed NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle that his physical condition was not up to par. He said he felt it wouldn't be fair to the Western squad to be included on the roster, even though it was possible he might be well enough to play.

Pardee then was a solid choice for Schmidt's replacement in a poll of Western Division coaches. Other Rams in the line-up are halfback Dick Bass and defensive tackle Merlin Olsen.

The loss of revenue from television could have far-reaching effects on the sport. Payments from television have been a major source of income for many fighters.

The Times said the weekly "Without television revenue, fight would be replaced by another wouldn't seem feasible... to other sports attraction on the 'entertainment' network. It said the change may come in April.

Xavier Scores 77-53 Win Over Lourdes

San Diego Clinches AFL Western Division Title With 58-20 Win

Chargers to Meet Winner of Boston, Buffalo Playoff

BY MIKE RATHET

"It's like going from the out-house to the penthouse."

That was the cogent comment of San Diego line coach Joe Madro after the Chargers completed an amazing flip-flop by Blair in the first quarter, but overhauled Denver 58-20 Sunday and clinching their third Western Division title in the four-year history of the American Football League.

And much of the credit for the turnaround must go to Paul Lowe, who has lugged a hockey guard wrapped around his fractured leg 1,010 yards this season and triggered the Chargers to their final victory by gaining 184 yards and scoring two touchdowns.

Lowe was out all last season with a broken arm, and the Chargers plummeted to a 4-10 record after winning the Western crown the first two years of the league's operation. Then, against Buffalo, in the Chargers' opener this season, Lowe suffered a hairline fracture of the left leg.

"Nobody ever knew about it but me and Coach Sid Gillman," said Lowe two days ago in revealing the injury for the first time when he was named AFL Comeback Player of the Year in an Associated Press poll. "I was determined not to let it keep me out."

So Lowe wrapped a hockey guard around the battered leg, and played. He topped off his performances by piercing the Broncos line for the first Charger touchdown on an 11-yard run, then bolting 66 yards for the clincher in the third period as San Diego brought its record to 11-3.

The Chargers will meet the winner of the Eastern Division playoff between Boston and Buffalo for the AFL championship at San Diego, Jan. 5. The Patriots and Bills, idle Sunday, will settle their battle at Buffalo Saturday afternoon.

The only thing that concerned Gillman was the final game of the regular season with the out-come of the Western race hinge on the outcome. San Diego needed a tie or victory to hold off Oakland, which had closed out within one game of the leaders.

The Raiders wound up one length behind, finishing a 10-4 season by edging Houston 52-49 for their eighth consecutive victory. In the only other game scheduled, the Kansas City Chiefs crushed New York 48-0.

The Hawk cagers whipped Oshkosh Lourdes, 77-53, for their 32nd consecutive varsity football - basketball win during 1963. It also marked the 52nd straight win in basketball and football since the last defeat (March, 1962) in state tournament basketball. Xavier's 3-season basketball streak now stands at 34 games.

The win over Lourdes was the final event on the Hawk's 1963 slate — a slate that found them winning every tilt in the course of the past 12 months.

Take 5-1 Lead

The game took the pattern taken by so many Xavier basketball games in the past. The Hawks jumped off to a 5-1 lead and jumped it to 7-2. It was 14-8 and 16-10 before Lourdes came back to within four points in the first period.

Outstanding outside shooting by Joe Suda enabled the Knights to come within a point in the second stanza. Then Xavier crept ahead and held a steady 5-point lead almost to halftime.

Gillman Calls Charger Win a 'Team Effort'

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—The San Diego Chargers, quaffing champagne and puffing cigars, celebrated their victory over the Raiders in a showdown with the Chargers.

"We didn't want to go in through the back door," one said. "The Chargers had just dis- posed of Denver 58-22 and the prayers for teammates than inter- est in whom they will oppose Jan. 5 in the AFL championship game."

Coach Sid Gillman called it a "team effort." "It can be either Buffalo or Boston — we don't really care," he added.

For one fleeting moment Sun- day, Connie Dierking was a Bill Russell, shoving his 6-foot-9 frame and 222 pounds high into the air to block a shot by Wilt.

It was the only shot Chamberlain took for San Francisco in the first quarter.

He took many more after that, and Philadelphia had less and less success as Chamberlain stuffed in 40 points and Wayne Hightower contributed 29 in the Warriors' 118-104 victory over the 76ers.

As for Dierking, a journeyman, pro back in the National Basket- ball Association after a tour with the ill-fated American Bas- ketball League, he wound up with six points.

In the only other games played Sunday, St. Louis moved within one game of lead- ing Los Angeles in the Western Division by defeating Baltimore 116-104.

Records Fall as Raiders Down Oilers, 52-49

Oakland Finishes One Game Behind San Diego in AFL

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP)—Cin- derella's midnight finally ar- rived for the Oakland Raiders Sunday but not until they had finally entrenched themselves as a professional, estab- lished record on the plus side and come within one game of a title.

Halfback Clem Daniels, quar- terback Tom Flores and end Art Powell shared honors as the club finished an eight-game 1963 winning streak with a 52-49 triumph over Houston.

Fourteen touchdowns were scored before Mike Mercer's 39- yard field goal provided the fi- nal and winning points for Oak- land and a 10-4 American foot- ball League record.

An hour later the Raiders' Cinderella story ended as San Diego whipped Denver 58-20 and took the Western Division crown with an 11-3 mark.

Daniels gained 158 yards rush- ing for a season record of 1,098, two more than Buffalo's Cookie Gilchrist ran a year ago.

Nine other records had fallen by the end of the day. The 101 total points were the most ever scored in an AFL game. The 1,063 net yardage was the most, as was the total passing yardage of 749 and the game's 11 touchdown passes.

Powell caught four of them, the most ever for an AFL re- ceiver. Other records were the 269 yards gained on kickoff re- turns by Houston, the kickoff of 18 touchdowns during the day, and the 240 yards on kickoff re- turns by the Oilers' Bob Jancik.

In three previous seasons, the Raiders had won a total of nine games exceeded in this one 1963 splurge which few expected.

Daniels was awarded the game ball by his teammates and the season might have had an even better ending if he had not been injured in four games, all of which the Raiders lost early in the season.

Flores, out last year with a lung ailment, finished with 17 completions in 29 passes for 407 yards and six touchdowns. George Blanda of Houston nearly matched him with 20 of 32 for 342 and five scores.

Powell set his record on plays covering 81, 20, 45 and 22, the final tying the score 49-49 in the final period.

John Townsend, Hurler in 1900s, Succumbs at 84

WILMINGTON, Del. (AP)— John Townsend, a first decade of the 1900s, died Saturday night at Delaware hospital here. He was 84.

Death was attributed to a heart ailment.

Known as a fast Townsend pitcher with erratic control, Bussard made his big-league debut with the Philadelphia Phillies in 1901, with a wild performance that caused him to be yanked from the mound.

Townsend, expecting to be fired, was surprised to find him- self starting, instead, against the Brooklyn Dodgers. He pitched a three-hitter and an 8-4 victory.

112 College Teams to Compete in 22 Cage Tournaments This Week

UCLA Breaks Creighton's Win Streak at 9

By Bob Green
Associated Press Sports Writer

The mad, mad, mad, mad world of college basketball reaches its maddest moments this week with 112 teams competing in 22 separate tournaments—at least at last count—and each one of them is supposed to mean something.

Actually, they rarely do. The serious part, conference play, is still two weeks off for a majority of the nation's myriad teams, with this week's annual Christmas holiday tournaments serving as the breaking point of the season.

The madness began last week with a handful of major tournaments. The big one was in Lexington, Ky., where the home folks got downright frantic when this week with 112 teams competing in 22 separate tournaments—at least at last count—and each one of them is supposed to mean something.

The victory was the seventh in a row for unbeaten Kentucky, ranked second in the nation and obviously angling for the top spot, held by defending national champion Chicago Loyola.

Refuses to Yield
The champs refused to yield ground, however. Loyola, 6-0, maintained its 100-point-a-game average with two victories during the week, 112-68 over South Dakota and 91-47 over Ohio Wesleyan.

Other ranked teams remaining unbeaten included No. 3 Michigan, 6-0; No. 6 UCLA, 6-0; No. 8 Vanderbilt, 7-0, and No. 10 Davidson, 7-0.

Michigan romped over No. 5 Duke 83-67; UCLA snapped Creighton's nine-game winning string 95-79; Vanderbilt beat Louisville 91-82 and Davidson romped over East Carolina 105-77 in Saturday games.

Seventh-ranked New York University and No. 9 Toledo were not in action Saturday, but suffered midweek upsets. No. 4 Cincinnati also was idle Saturday after two victories during the week.

Princeton, unranked but sporting one of the brightest individual stars, took third in the Kentucky tournament, edging Wisconsin 90-87 in overtime. Bill Bradley, a 6-foot-5 junior, poured in 47 points.

Ranked teams in tourney action this week include UCLA vs. Yale and Michigan vs. NYU in the first round of the Los Angeles Classic; Chicago Loyola vs. Georgetown, D.C. in the first round of the Quaker City Classic in Philadelphia, and Vanderbilt vs. Memphis State in the Vanderbilt Invitation at Nashville, Tenn.

Cincinnati is the only ranked team in action tonight, playing host to Kansas State. Saturday games involving the Top Ten include Kentucky vs. Notre Dame at Louisville, and Tulsa at Cincinnati.

Vast Array
The bulk of the interest, however, centers on the vast array of tournaments. Here's a partial line-up, with several more getting underway next week:

Thursday—Holiday Festival at New York, Big Eight at Kansas City, Los Angeles Classic, WCAC at San Francisco; 6 Far West Classic at Portland, Ore.; Queen City at Buffalo and All-College at Oklahoma City.

Friday—Motor City at Detroit, Kodak Classic at Rochester, N.Y., Quaker City Classic at Philadelphia, Milwaukee Classic, Hurricane Classic at Miami Beach, Vanderbilt Invitation at Nashville, Evansville, Ind., Holiday, Poinsetta Classic at Greenville, S.C., Downeast Classic at Bangor, Maine, All-American at Owensboro, Ky., Gulf South Classic at Shreveport, La., Wagner Invitational at Staten Island, N.Y., Gator Bowl at Jacksonville, Fla., and the Watauga Invitational at Johnson City, Tenn.

Saturday—Sun Carnival at El Paso, Tex.

Old Warrant Found In Racine County Files for N. M. Man

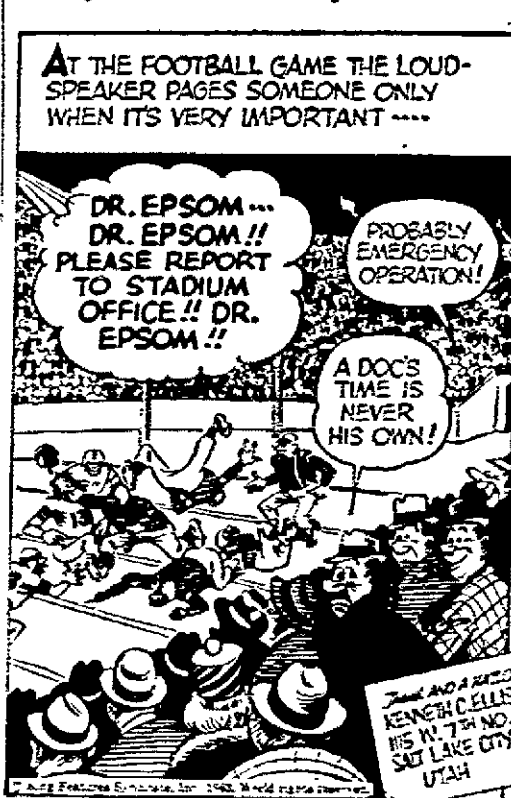

RACINE (AP)—Discovery of an old warrant in the files of the Racine County District attorney's office has led to the arrest of a Roswell, N.M., restaurant operator.

Michael A. Zold Jr., 32, was returned here last week and faces preliminary hearing Friday on a charge of embezzling $1,225 from the Town of Calo-Coma when he was a plumbing inspector.

Asst. Dist. Atty. Harrison W. Nares said Zold was traced through a Social Security number when the old warrant was found after his former wife complained that he failed to support her. Zold was returned to Racine following an extradition hearing in New Mexico. He denied the charge.

The district attorney's office said the statute of limitations did not apply because Zold was out of the state when the charge was issued.

Live Within Your Income

Budget Counts on Use by Both Partners in Marriage

By Mary Feeley
Consultant in Money Management

Dear Miss Feeley:

Please, some help with my husband! He claims we have what amounts to a budget, but I don't agree. He's forever at me about the charge accounts being too high, but I don't know how we stand so how am I to know how much to spend?

He puts the money in the checking account and writes checks for everything. Another thing, I never have any money of my own to spend.

His salary per week is approximately $130. However, for two years he has been on six days a week and it looks like that will continue for some time. For the six days, it runs $170. Our house payments are $91 including taxes and insurance. Utilities are about $11 in summer and no higher than $30 in winter. Phone, $7, car is $60, a loan, $35, his life insurance $12 and he has $10 a week put in his credit union. His company pays all his medical insurance and a life insurance policy.

He also makes $15 a week hauling riders to work. My husband's motto is "If you need something, buy it." But I'd like to go more on a plan. So could you please help? I'd also like to have a nicer home. We have two girls, 6 and 8.

Mrs. W.H.B., Dayton, Ohio
Dear Mrs. B.:

Whoever said women were the inconsistent people? Any man who says to his wife "If you need something, buy it," and then grows about her spending, is asking for trouble. He deserves it, too.

Your husband should allot a certain amount every week for household spending, and turn it over to you without having to be reminded. Of course, he's floundering around like you are—since he evidently doesn't know just how much it does take to run your end of the business. Unless you both go over your financial situation together, you'll never get it on a workable basis.

What has been done in the past is water over the dam. So save the arguments and look over this budget setup:

Rent, $91; utilities, $31; other household operating costs, $15; food, $107; clothing, $35; loan, $35; loan on car, $90; life insurance, $12; savings, $20; personal allowances, $42; miscellaneous, $36; medical, $15; recreation, $20; car operating, $40. The total is $559.

This is using the $130 a week income, rather than the $170. While you're getting the bigger income right now, I gather it isn't permanent. So better not count on it. Instead, take that extra day's pay and put it in the savings bank, where it will earn interest. It can help you plan toward better living quarters.

Since your husband makes that extra "hauling" bonus, it can be used to increase personal allowances to provide something for you and the children to call your own. The cost of operating the car shouldn't consume it all.

The important thing is to decide between you which bills you pay, and are responsible for, and which ones he will pay. You'll both be happier if you know how much is too much!

Dear Miss Feeley:

I have small savings bank accounts for my grandchildren. Must I report the interest. They are all under 18 years old.

Dear E. B.:

It depends upon the kind of bank accounts you have. If they are revocable savings trust accounts which you, as

Civil Rights foe Says Bill Will Pass in 1964

WASHINGTON (AP)—In the Namara's decision not to use nuclear power in a new aircraft carrier.

W. Smith, D-Va., one of the leading foes of civil rights legislation, has virtually conceded that a rights bill will be passed in 1964.

But Smith, chairman of the powerful House Rules Committee, said in an interview on ABC's radio and television program "Issues and Answers," that after the bill becomes law, "If I made the kind of talk I'm making now against civil rights, I could be thrown in the hoosegow."

Smith said Rules Committee hearings on the bill would open Jan. 9.

"This bill," said Smith, "is just as full of booby traps as a dog is of fleas. I mean in fragments on the rights of individual citizens."

Michigan Leads Big 10 Teams Into Tournaments

CHICAGO (AP)—The Big Ten's top basketball teams, led by unbeaten and third-ranked Michigan, swing into rugged holiday tournaments this week in final tuneups before opening the championship race.

Several single engagements will precede the tournament rounds. Ohio State, 4-3, enters Houston tonight while Purdue, 2-4, is host to New Mexico and Michigan State, 5-2, is at Brigham Young in Utah.

Hunters Could Take 70,000 Deer Annually, Says Smith

MADISON (AP)—A State Conservation Department official said today Wisconsin deer hunters could take more than 70,000 animals annually with little effect on the size of Wisconsin's herd.

The observation came from J. R. Smith, game division superintendent. He said the harvest in the north was up 20 percent despite a decrease in the number of hunters.

Smith said the 15,000 bag for the 1963 season represented less than three animals per square mile of deer range. He called the available quota party system "eminently successful" and added it is now ready for expansion. He noted that of the 5,600 permits issued, a total of 1,500 were filled.

"Refinements will be necessary in the future to attract hunters to the northwest where many deer are wasted annually because too few people hunt there," Smith said.

Near complete records show Jackson County had the heaviest kill, 5,061. Following in order feat in seven games, was Bill Bradley who broke three tournament scoring records. His 47 points and 18 field goals against the Badgers were both record marks, and his total of 77 points in two tournament games produced the third.

"Mr. Everything" was Erickson's description of Bradley. Don Hearden came off the bench for the Badgers to score 23 points, 16 of them after half-time, to earn a starting job. He'll replace Jim Bohlen in the lineup. The 23 points by Hearden and 21 by Mike O'Melia was the best production by Wisconsin guards this season.

Kentucky won the tournament by beating Wake Forest 98-75 to remain undefeated after seven starts.

The Badgers return to action Friday night, meeting Dartmouth in the second game of the opening round of the Milwaukee Classic Tournament in the A. R. A. Marquette and Georgia Tech meet in the opener. The winners and the losers play Saturday night.

AD A Supports Johnson Efforts For World Peace

WASHINGTON (AP)—Americans for Democratic Action voiced support Saturday for what it called President Johnson's "broad attack on injustice, inhumanity and poverty" and his world peace policies.

But the liberal organization, which has been sharply critical of Johnson in the past, cautioned in a statement issued by Prof. John P. Roche, its national chairman, that there are formidable barriers to attaining these goals.

In effect, ADA put Johnson on notice it expects him to spell out in detail in 1964 measures to Congress how he intends to go about translating his objectives into realities.

18 Crewmen of Vessel Picked From Atlantic

Seven Other Men And Captain Said Missing in Storm

HALIFAX, N.S. (AP)—Eighteen crewmen of the sunken French freighter Douala were plucked from the stormy Atlantic Sunday after spending 27 freezing hours in two lifeboats. Seven other crewmen died, and four, including Capt. Michel Labbe, were missing. The storm—one of the worst to hit Canada in recent years—was blamed for 10 other deaths.

tre, 49, expressed belief the captain went down with the 2,300-ton Douala in a howling storm 35 miles southeast of Burgeo, Nfld.

Ship Sinking
"Our ship was sinking and the captain ordered the second lifeboat to get away," Sinestre said in Port-aux-Basques, Nfld. "The captain stayed on board but the others dived into the sea. They swam but not all of them were able to get into the boat."

Sinestre and 14 other survivors arrived in Port-aux-Basques Sunday night aboard the Canadian icebreaker Sir Humphrey Gilbert which rescued them after they were spotted by a Royal Canadian Air Force search plane.

Distress Flares
The engineer, senior surviving officer, said the survivors used their last distress flares to attract the plane.

The freighters Ludwig and Langlave rescued three crew-men about 50 miles southeast of Port-aux-Basques.

The Douala sank about noon Saturday after its hatch covers were ripped off by pounding waves and winds up to 100 miles per hour. Waves reached a height of 75 feet.

Royal Family Begins To Gather for Big Christmas Observance

SANDRINGHAM, England (AP)—Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip arrived here Saturday night—the vanguard of a big royal family Christmas reunion at which the talk is expected to be as much about the stork as about Santa Claus.

Four of the royal ladies attending are expecting babies in the new year. They are the queen, Princess Margaret, Princess Alexandra and the Duchess of Kent.

Stock Market Going Down

Tax Considerations And Profit Taking Dominates Trading

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market resumed an irregular decline early this afternoon in moderately active trading.

Year-end tax considerations still seemed to dominate trading. Profit-taking in issues with big gains this year dampened prices in most groups.

The trend among steels, motors, airlines, drugs, utilities and aerospace issues was mostly lower.

Some coppers advanced. Copper production next year is likely to be increased if demand continues at the present higher rate, it was forecast.

Fairly wide losses were taken by an assortment of "glamour" issues.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was off .4 at 234.7 with industrials off .4, rails unchanged and utilities off .6.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was off 2.52 at 759.56.

Polaroid and Control Data lost about 3 points each. Xerox fell more than 4 and its when-issue was off about a point.

Kennecott advanced more than 2 points and Anaconda was up a fraction. Phelps Dodge, however, was a fractional loser.

Losses of about a point were taken by Pan American World Airways, AT&T and Merck.

Fractional losses were shown by General Motors, Ford Chrysler, Jersey Standard, Pennsylvania Railroad, General Electric, Eastman Kodak, Union Carbide and Boeing.

Radio Corp. was another 2-point loser.

Prices were mixed on the American Stock Exchange. Corporate and U.S. government bonds were mixed to a bit lower in spots.

Driver Training Pushed by State

Official Points Out Funds Available to Aid Local Schools

MADISON — The State Department of Public Instruction is trying to encourage larger enrollments in the accredited high school driver training courses with financial support.

Such courses of approved instruction are now available in three-quarters of all of the Wisconsin high schools, but only one-fourth of the students thus far have participated, according to a bulletin from W. T. Richards, supervisor of the course in the state office, directed to local school administrators.

The bulletin cited the higher auto insurance charges for young drivers, reflecting their poor safety performance on the highways, as one of the reasons parents and teachers should encourage instruction in driving. He also is vice president in charge of manufacturing for the Richards reminded that when parent company.

the legislature in 1961 increased driver license fees, it did so to provide generous aids of up to $25 to the local schools for each pupil satisfactorily completing an approved driver training period of instruction. "The schools have the students at ages 15 to 16—the time they are most eager to learn to drive," he said. "The schools are by their nature and organization better equipped than parents, relatives and friends to do this job. The best instruction can be provided by qualified teachers," he said.

Milwaukee Firm Net Sales Rise

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Harschfeger Corp. announced today that net sales for the year ending Oct. 31 were $85.97 million, compared with $87.38 million the previous year.

Income was $1.31 million, compared with $1.41 million in fiscal 1962.

Heads Company

DELAVER (AP)—Howard F. Skopec has been named president of Sta-Rite Plastic Corp. of Burlington, a subsidiary of Sta-Rite Products Inc. of Delaver.

He also is vice president in charge of manufacturing for the Sta-Rite Products Inc. of Delaver.

Story of Santa Claus and How He Got His Name Told Again

BY CHARLES HOUSE
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

This is a true story. It is the story about Santa Claus and how he got his name. You are big enough now to know what really and truly happened.

A long, long, long time ago a baby boy was born in a place far away from here. It was in a city named Patara and in a country named Syria.

(The national age of disbelief in Santa Claus is eight years. For some children, the truth is greatly disturbing. For that reason, the Post-Crescent reprints, for a fifth time, this gentle explanation.)

The baby was just like other babies. It laughed some of the time and it cried sometimes. When people looked at him, they said he was a pretty baby. People always say things like that about babies.

There was one thing different about this baby although nobody knew it at the time. This baby was going to grow up to become Santa Claus — the really and truly Santa Claus.

Father's Name Funny
The baby's father had a funny name. It was Epiphaneas. The baby's mother had a nice name.

It was Joanna. Now when Epiphaneas and Joanna named the baby, they chose the name love people and to help them. Sometimes, I think, and as Nick grew and grew, they may have called him from a baby into a boy and a boy into a young man.

You see that his name wasn't become a wonderful person. Santa Claus — not yet, anyhow. He got that name later when he became big; and he got the name in a funny way. I will so he could help the people who needed help. And Nick was very, very good and very kind and he loved the people on the earth. They loved him, too, and they tried to do the good things he wanted them to do. They followed him and they believed in him, and they called themselves Christians.

Nick's mother and father were Christians. They taught Nick to be good and to be kind and to love people and to help them. As Nick grew and grew, they may have called him from a baby into a boy and a boy into a young man.

One day some people came from place to place to help people who needed help. He began to travel from place to place to help people who needed help. He began to travel from place to place to help people who needed help.

Here is a strange thing: When St. Nick traveled to the northern places where it was cold, he dressed as warmly as he knew. I think you know how he dressed. His own country was a very warm place and when he went to colder places, he would dress in red clothes (sometimes Bishops wear red), and he wore red mittens, and a red hat and his clothes were trimmed with white fur—almost exactly as you know he would dress.

Drove Reindeer
And how did he get to these distant places? He drove reindeer! And they pulled him in a big sled. And on the back of the sled was a big bag of presents and toys — just exactly as you have been thinking of him all these years when you believed.

But one sad day, after St. Nick became a very old man, he died. He had grown very, very old. He died on December 6 of a year numbered 343. And everybody was sad. People looked at each other and asked, "Who will take his place?"

Well, there were some people who were willing to try. So they put on red clothes trimmed with white fur and they went around giving presents to people, especially to little boys and girls. They thought it was great deal of fun to make children glad. It is, too.

The people who dressed and acted like St. Nick couldn't do it all of the time, of course, so they did it just around Christmas because it was near to the time that St. Nick had died. People just sort of got him mixed up with Christmas even though he isn't really a part of that wonderful story.

Now it happened that many, many years after St. Nick had died, some Dutch people came to America where you live. They found to their surprise that the people in America knew nothing at all about St. Nick. So the Dutch people told the story to the people of this country. It was such a nice and such a true story that people here thought they would have a make — believe St. Nicholas too.

Dutch Talk Different
A very funny thing happened though. You know that Dutch people talk different from American people, don't you? And when Dutch people say, "St. Nicholas," they say it like this: "Sant Nicolaus."

Now I am going to stop telling for a minute and ask you to try to say "Sant Nicolaus" the way the Dutch people said it. Say it very fast a few times and you will see that it does not sound like "St. Nicholas." It sounds like "Santa Claus." So now you know that the name "Santa Claus" isn't even a real name. It's a kind of "fun" name.

And you can understand now that there was once a really and truly Santa. But you know that he couldn't live to be as old as 1,662 years old, could he? But when you were little and you are now, your mother and father let you believe that Santa Claus was still coming around to your house. The reason is that it is a wonderful way to make little children happy. Mothers and fathers are right to do things that will make children glad because that is the way children ought to be.

It is very, very nice that almost everyone in the whole world makes believe that there is a really and truly Santa Claus. So there you see. That is the whole story about the really and truly Santa Claus who liked better than anything to make boys and girls happy — just as big people do to this very day.

Correction
Attorney's fees for processing the estate of Miss Viola S. Behling did not amount to $73.103 as reported in Friday's paper. That amount was the total administration costs, according to the attorney.

Today in History

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Monday Dec. 23, the 357th day of 1963. There are 8 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1823, the Troy, N.Y., Sentinel first published Clement Moore's famous Christmas classic, "A Visit from St. Nicholas." The selection was published anonymously, without the author's knowledge.

On this date: In 1873, George Washington resigned his commission as commander-in-chief at the State House in Annapolis, Md., and retired to his home at Mount Vernon.

In 1921, President Warren Harding signed a bill to provide $20 million in famine relief for the Russians.

In 1948, former Japanese dictator Hideki Tojo and six of his collaborators were hanged for war crimes.

Ten years ago — Russian announced the firing squad executions of former security police chief Lavrenti Beria and six of his aides.

Five years ago — Pope John XXIII delivered his annual Christmas message in which he called on Christians to unite against the threat of communism.

One year ago — The first Cuban prisoners liberated from Fidel Castro's prisons in exchange for U.S. medical and food supplies reached Miami.

State Truckers Earn $770 Million Annually

The volume puts the value of the 263,808 trucks domiciled in the state at $282 million.

A Christmas Prayer

Let us pray that strength and courage abundant be given to all who work for a world of reason and understanding; that the good that lies in every man's heart may day by day be magnified; that men will come to see more clearly not that which divides them, but that which unites them; that each hour may bring us closer to a final victory, not of nation over nation, but of man over his own evils and weaknesses; that the true spirit of this Christmas Season—its joy, its beauty, its hope, and above all its abiding faith—may live among us; that the blessings of peace be ours—the peace to build and grow, to live in harmony and sympathy with others, and to plan for the future with confidence.

Voters Cannot Express Ideas On Vital Issues

Legislators Have No Responsibilities To Their Parties

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Who is fundamentally to blame for the mess in Congress? The Republicans? The Democrats? The administration in power? Or the people themselves?

The disarray is primarily due to the absence of party responsibility in the national legislative body. There is no way at present for the people to express their will on a major issue at the time it arises.

Lawrence

The "foreign aid" program is the ostensible cause of the confusion which last week stalled the adjournment of Congress. But something deeper is involved. It is the failure of the American system to permit the people a voice at the moment when their opinion and guidance should be formally recorded.

All the recent talk about merely amending the rules of procedure in the committees of congress is meaningless because it doesn't go to the root of the problem. Once upon a time in American history — as recently as 50 years ago — there was responsibility. A party caucus vote binding on its participants was customary. But today each member of a political party in Congress is a law unto himself. He is subject to no party discipline. Even if he were, however, there is no immediate opportunity for the people to decide who is right or wrong. The people seemingly are outsiders — bewildered bystanders. They are told that in America the people rule — but this sometimes seems more a theory than a fact.

Foreign Aid

The American people would probably agree to the basic principle involved in "foreign aid." But they wouldn't agree that the country aided could thereby ignore its own responsibilities. The American people, if a referendum were held today, would doubtless vote overwhelmingly against allowing government credit facilities to be used to finance sales of wheat to the Soviet government. Just a little more than a year ago that same government in Moscow was financing the construction of missile bases in Cuba with the avowed purpose of using such bases to attack the United States.

lack the lives and property of the American people. Has the leopard changed his spots so quickly?

Today there is a split in each of the two major parties in Congress. Why, it may be asked, are there, in effect, four blocs? Why, to be sure, is the Democratic party in particular split so badly in both houses of Congress? One reason is related to differences on economic issues. The other involves a surrender to political expediency by the northern Democrats in an effort to attract the Negro vote. Persistent attempts to try to change human nature by a process of legislative coercion is, more over, beginning to split the Democratic party among the voters in the north, too.

An argument can be made, of course, on both sides of the controversy over "civil rights," but what matters is that the American people have never been given a chance to vote on this issue in a special election for members of Congress. Nor is there today a system that tabulates party responsibility even when a regular election has been held every two years.

The division in the Democratic party between "conservatives" and "liberals" on economic and fiscal issues has its parallel in the Republican party in Congress. But the Democratic party just now has almost a two-thirds majority in both houses and a president of its own party in the White House. Theoretically, therefore, the majority party should have unity in its ranks. Were it not for the vexatious "civil rights" issue, a system of responsible govern-

Congress to Get Metric Study Bill Next Session

This is not pre-Christmas nonsense. For what I've done above is simply translate our familiar English pounds, feet and inches into their equivalent metric weights and measures — kilograms, meters and centimeters.

Impressive evidence is piling up that we finally are moving toward adoption of the Metric System for weights and measurements — the "international language" of science and trade used in 85 countries, including 90 per cent of the world's population today.

Bill Scheduled

Item: A "Metric Study Bill" is slated to be introduced in the next session of Congress to lay the basis for conversion here to the Metric System over the next such as prevails in some other generation. Chances for passage of the bill, which would call for an exhaustive study of the feasibility and problems of the changeover by the National Bureau of Standards, are considered the best in years.

Item: This Saturday, Dec. 28.

in Cleveland, the Metric Assn., a non-profit organization headquartered in Washington, will hold its annual meeting in connection with the convention of the American Assn. for the Advancement of Science. Leaders of science, education and industry at this meeting will push for conversion as soon as feasible.

Item: Editorials are now appearing in record numbers in the nation's most influential scientific and trade journals urging a changeover to meet the demands of space-age industries and to bring our measurement system into conformity with most of the rest of the world.

Conversion Wanted

"Never before has there been such tremendous pressure to convert to the Metric System," says Democratic Congressman George Miller of California, chairman of the House Committee on Science and Astronautics and sponsor of the Metric Study bill. Miller expects that the study will be completed by 1967, foot or 86 45-64 quarts in a barrel of cranberries but 105 "dry change of scientific information" (whatever they are) in most other barrels of fruit.

It divides all weights, distances and volumes into neat units of 10, 100 and 1,000. There are only THREE units involved: the gram, the meter and the liter. To measure weight, there is the gram and there are 1,000 long tons, points and perches, grams in a kilogram (about 2.2 grains and scruples).

For length, there is the meter and there are 1,000 meters between statute and nautical mile. For volume, there is the liter (which is about a quart) and there are 1,000 liters in a NOT weigh the same as a pound.

Marked Contrast

Against the Metric System's three units, there are more than 80 units in "common use" in our country today. Ours is a terribly complicated, monstrous system in a strously mixed up system in which trade and exchange of scientific information in demand simplicity and uniformity. Tomorrow: What a changeover. In contrast, our system is, as the Science News Letter puts it, (Copyright 1963)

House Democrats Predict Foreign Aid Action by Tuesday

Some Congressmen Fly Back To Capital for Decision

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Democratic leaders, bringing their absent members back to work by planes, predicted they would have enough Democrats on hand today to crack Republican opposition and pass the foreign aid bill by Tuesday at the latest.

And that won't be any too soon for President Johnson, his prestige on the line and his Tex. Democratic leaders, bringing as holiday delayed. He and aides were said to have kept the White House telephone lines humming Sunday trying to whip up support for the measure in calls to congressmen.

And at least one charter flight was reported picking up congressmen in Texas, Louisiana and Georgia who had gone home early for Christmas and was speeding them back to the capital. Who was paying for the flight — and perhaps others — wasn't clear. A spokesman denied the White House was paying the bill.

Vote Expected Tuesday
However, because of House rules a final vote on the $3 billion aid appropriations measure was not expected before Christmas Eve.

But even if the House approves the bill with its controversial provision on government credit guarantees for sales to Soviet bloc countries, the Senate still must act.

And the senators, most of them home for the holidays, have no business scheduled all week and are not likely to vote before Friday, at the earliest.

House Democratic leader Carl Albert of Oklahoma served notice that there will be no adjournment until the bill is approved.

No Quick Adjournment
Thus no quick adjournment is in sight for the longest session since the 1950 Korean War Congress. And when it comes it will be little more than a formality.

The crucial issue in the state-mate over the compromise foreign aid appropriation bill is whether to ban government underwriting of private credit accompanying any shipments to Communist countries.

Youth Accused of Serving Poisoned Tea to His Father

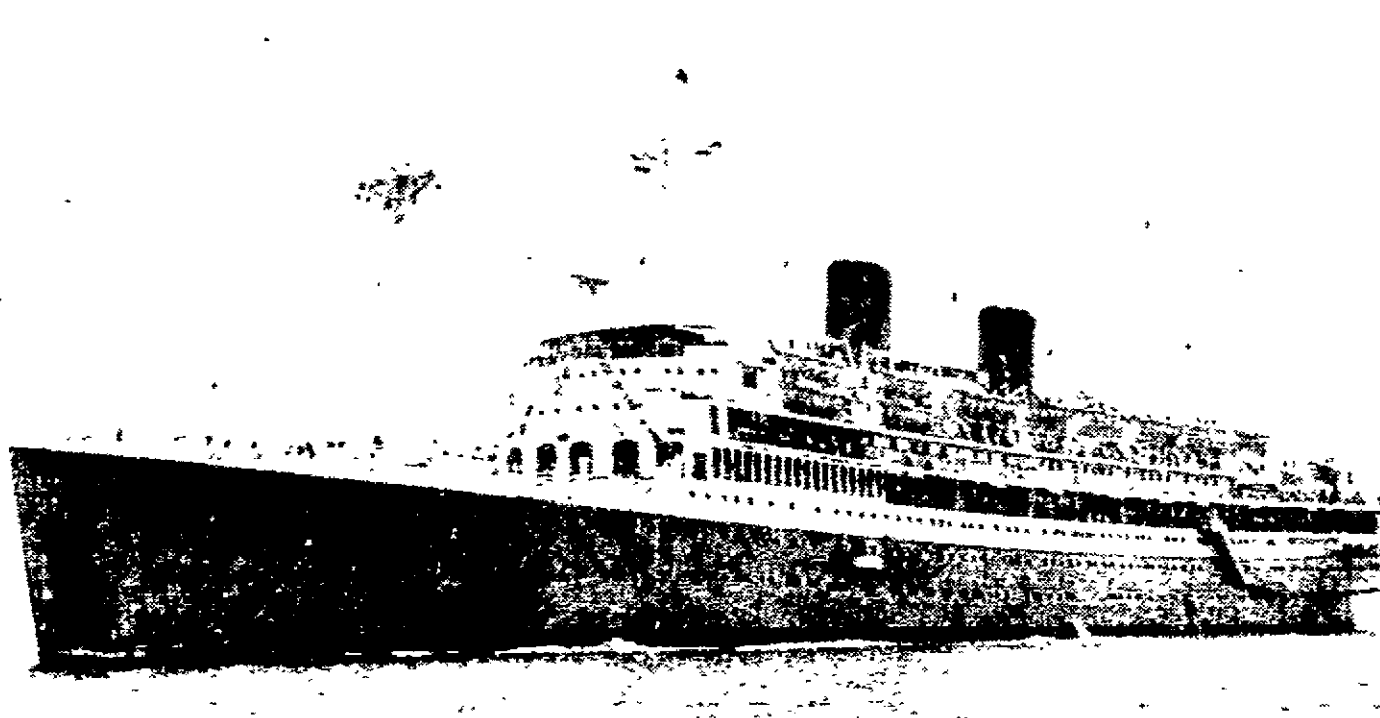

MUNICH, Germany (AP) — Police said today they have arrested Michael Thiess, 18-year-old stepson of Hollywood star Robert Taylor, on suspicion of attempted murder.

Police said the youth is accused of serving poisoned tea to his father, 49-year-old Munich film producer Georg Thiess.

Formal charges have not yet been filed against the boy. Under German law, he can be held during investigation by the state prosecutor.

The boy's mother, Ursula Thiess, married Taylor in 1954. Police said the youth moved in with his father and the two argued in February.

Massive Rescue Efforts Continue After Disaster Hits Holiday Cruise Ship

BY TOM OCHILTREE

LONDON (AP) — A raging fire forced 1,046 persons to abandon the Christmas cruise ship Lakonia in the Atlantic today. A massive air-sea rescue operation plucked hundreds from the ocean and more were being saved hourly. A U. S. Air Force report said about 100 persons were floating in the water and all appeared dead.

Aboard the 20,314-ton Greek liner when disaster struck last night were 651 passengers on a holiday, mostly British but including four Americans, and a crew of 395. Reports of the total rescued ranged from 470 to more than 800 but there was a possibility of some duplication.

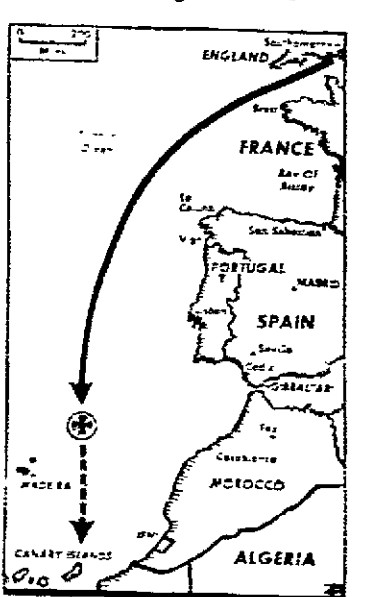

All but the stern of the ship was ablaze and explosions rocked her 608-foot length when rescue vessels arrived on the scene about 180 miles north of the Portuguese island of Madeira and 550 miles northwest of Casablanca. The water was dotted with lifeboats and swimmers.

Great clouds of smoke rolled up from the red hot hulk. People wild with joy waved from lifeboats as rescuers approached. Others struggled to swim as far away from the Lakonia as they could.

Officials of the line believed two babies and 30 to 34 children under 12 were aboard. Some accounts told of mothers tossing children into lifeboats and of parents struggling in the water to keep their children afloat. U. S. and British military planes criss-crossed the area, spotting swimmers and lifeboats and directing rescue boats.

DePere Newlyweds Are Only Occupants; Escape Uninjured

CLEVELAND, Wis. — "We'll never forget our honeymoon," a young De Pere couple said today after the $250,000 motel and supper club at which they were staying was destroyed by fire.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Sanders had been married in West De Pere Saturday and were the only occupants in addition to the desk clerk and her son who were staying at the 29-unit plush Surf Motel a half mile from Cleveland on the shore of Lake Michigan.

A short time after they fled the building, an explosion rocked the cocktail lounge and the fire, feeding along gas lines, quickly engulfed the entire motel which is located just off U.S. 41 between Manitowoc and Sheboygan.

Awakened at 2:30
"We were awakened at 2:30 a.m. by somebody calling 'Joyce, Joyce,' the first name of the woman desk clerk," Mrs. Sanders said.

"I looked out the window of our room and saw the fire in the cocktail lounge, which is attached as a wing of the motel."

They had been awakened by a man who lived just behind the motel. He was apparently aroused by exploding liquor bottles as the cocktail lounge burned.

Lawrence Enrollment Has Steady Increase

A study of Lawrence College enrollment trends over the last 13 years has been made by Registrar Dorothy H. Draheim. Total enrollment in 1950 - 51 was 917, the last of the inflated post World War II years, in which there was an exceptionally large senior class of 205.

The next year, '51-52, saw a total of 799, and '53-54 marked the lowest enrollment in the current decade, when 743 students were in college. Since then, there has been a steady climb, passing 800 in 1956 - 57, and 900 in 1960-61. In '61-62, students numbered 1043; in '62-63, 1098; and this year, 1169. The figures of the last two years are significant because they come so close to a projection of Lawrence's student population work-out several years ago. At that time it was estimated that '62-63 would see 1072 students, and '63-64, 1148.

Although significant gains have been made in total enrollment, the percentage retention of students once established in college is not nearly so consistent.

Receive Diplomas
In the year '59-61, for instance, 57.7 per cent of the men and 46.5 per cent of the women who entered as freshmen actually received their diplomas. In '51-52, comparable figures were 68.1 per cent of the men and 38.9 per cent of the women. High points in the retention of men came with the class of 1954, when 87.1 per cent of men originally enrolling received degrees, and in 1957, when 69.8 per cent successfully completed the course of study. Women hit 49 per cent in the classes of '54, '57, and '59. In the last two years, the women's percentage swept to 56 and 58.1 respectively, while men have scored 62.9 per cent and 56.3 per cent.

Although there is considerable variation from class to class, men returning for the sophomore year run between 70 and 80 per cent of the original enrollment; about 65 per cent of the original number come back as juniors, and about 60 per cent as seniors.

Retention of women between the freshman and sophomore year is a little stronger than that of the men, but drops sharply after the second year. Shrinkage between the junior and senior year is relatively minor.

Men outnumbered women at Lawrence every year except 1959-60, when the females had an advantage of 6. Male advantage has varied numerically from 12 in '58-59, to 157 in the present year.

Trouble in Thailand

While Cambodia blithely invites in the Communists, and Laos and South Viet Nam appear to slide further toward the brink of political chaos, another Southeast Asian nation may be a cause of concern to the United States. Thailand's strong man, Premier Sarit Thanarat, died last week.

Sarit was not only a firm opponent of any Communist nonsense; he had the ability to make the easy going Thais economically responsible and respectable. After years of one coup after another, Sarit himself staged one in 1957 and took charge. He was able to cut the costs of such necessities as rice and schools and to encourage an amazing amount of foreign investment. His social program defeated the Red infiltrators as much as his army's tough attitude toward them.

But Sarit was an absolute dictator. He was able to blend the reverence of the Thais toward their monarch, King Bhumibol Adulyadej, with his own considerable talent in government and understanding of the needs and wishes of the people, and with the army as his right arm to discourage dissent. But such tactics, successful as they were in bringing stability to Thailand, do not usually train responsible leaders for the future. Sarit's successor, former Vice-Premier and Defense Minister Thanom Kittikachorn, is a supporter of Sarit's policies and has appointed a cabinet which also appears to feel the same way. But there is a vast difference between the vitality of a man's own ideas and the ability of followers to maintain and expand them.

Much of Southeast Asia has shown an inability to put into practice the theories of democracy and representative government. It is likely that strong men are needed at least during what can be hoped to be a period of transition from the old absolute monarchs to the democracy which has been brought to Asia in part by World War II.

But the next few months in Thailand will indicate whether or not the economic and social reforms and the government stability which Sarit built can be passed on to the next generation or developed further by this one. With only Malaysia presently showing much initiative in the area, the prospects do not look too favorable.

Allouez Votes No

The trend toward metropolitan government, at least for some of the services everyone in a community wants, has received a boost from a referendum in Allouez, a Green Bay suburb.

Allouez was faced with the decision of whether to build its own high school or attach for school purposes with the communities of Green Bay or DePere where high schools are operating. In a referendum in 1962, the Allouez voters decided to build their own high school. But in a referendum on a bond issue for the proposed school last week, the decision was 4 to 1 against the plans.

The apparent inconsistency was caused by a number of factors. New population surveys boosted the cost of the proposed high school from $1 million to almost $2 million. The school board and the town chairman gave the impression, warranted or not, of trying to ram through the vote without much concern for discussion or a presentation of facts people wanted. The community pride in wanting to be in charge of its own educational program ran smack into the hard fact of increased taxes and a concern that the proposed school was not the most economical in conception.

Moreover, some of the reason to have a high school began to look less defensible. Allouez is entirely a residential area with a relatively high level of medium and upper priced homes. Some of the residents somehow were thinking of a high school aimed only at the college bound. Others seemed reluctant to let their children attend high schools in DePere, which has a high percentage of rural youngsters, or Green Bay where Oneida Indian youngsters attend. The appeal to exclusivity and even a minor league bigotry may have begun to leave a bad taste. It certainly should have.

The defeat of the bond issue referendum does not clarify Allouez' dilemma. If its citizens are wise, they will look once more, with unshaded eyes this time, at the economic hazards of operating their own high school and try to reach a mode of accommodation with high schools now in operation and which Allouez pupils at present attend. These problems can be worked out equitably but only when efforts are sincere and emotions cool down.

World-Wide Problems

Medical research for centuries has been involved in the problem of what we now call the emotionally disturbed but it has only been in the last few decades that there has been much success in the treatment of sufferers. We still have a very long way to go in recognizing the symptoms of serious lack of balance.

If Lee Oswald was the assassin in Dallas, and if he was not hired to do the job, he is an example of such disturbance. Everyone now is familiar with his erratic background and that he was once recommended for psychiatric treatment because he was "potentially dangerous."

In Green Bay, a young man had shown enough signs of disorder to have a psychiatric appointment which came too late because in the meantime he killed his entire family.

In New York, a similar case has been reported. A young City College student was run down and killed by an automobile. The accused driver is emotionally disturbed and given to temper tantrums, according to his family physician, and had been referred to a psychiatrist. Passengers in his car had insisted on getting out because they said they didn't like the way he was acting.

A major problem in supplying treatment is that only trained professionals can recognize early danger signals and they usually do not interview the subjects until the symptoms have become severe. Even among psychiatrists there is a big difference of opinion about causes, symptoms and treatment. For every killer, there probably are thousands who never will be triggered into violence. Obviously we must not go back to the old method of locking up everyone who appears to be eccentric.

This is a field which needs dedication, money and continued expansion. The emotionally disturbed need treatment, not only because some of them may be threats to innocent individuals but because they themselves are usually suffering intensely. It is the concern of everyone.

Yoicks!

There has been quite a bit of publicity about the interest among Welsh coal miners in the old British fox hunt. The sport used to be restricted only to the gentry and the more aristocratic of them. But the new democracy may, as one critic said, "throw a spanner in the works."

There is a very vocal group in England violently opposed to fox hunting as a cruel and disgusting sport. The League Against Cruel Sports regularly protests riding to hounds unless it is only a drag hunt in which the hounds follow scent but not a live fox. In most cases the highfaluting keep right on galloping over the sward and looking down their noses at their lower class detractors.

But the new order of things means opportunity for another organization called the Hunt Saboteurs Association. Its members are not content with picketing hunts or appealing to an indifferent Parliament. They intend to mislead the hounds by infiltrating the hunt itself and then dragging hounds of meat over the course.

In the past, the plans have caused no concern among the hunters. "The hounds would take no notice of them," said one advocate loftily since hounds too, it appears, are snobs if brought up right. "If they did turn up I think they would simply be laughed at."

But with miners on old plugs getting into the act, the hounds may also turn democratic. And probably a slice of beef smells just as good if not better than an old fox.

Looking Backward

News of 3rd Wisconsin Cavalry

100 YEARS AGO
Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for Dec. 26, 1863.

St. Louis, Dec. 21, 1863 — A special to the St. Louis Democrat from Fort Smith, Ark., says that the attack made on the outposts of Fort Gibson on the 17th, by Standwaite's forces, stated to be 1,600 strong, was repulsed. Standwaite fell back, taking part of his force across the Arkansas, below Fort Gibson.

The Third Wisconsin Cavalry had just returned from a successful reconnaissance southward. They went within 13 miles of the Red River. Finding the enemy had changed position since the last advices, they were unable to proceed further. Their return was a constant skirmish for over 100 miles. Strong bodies of the enemy were posted at all the cross roads to intercept them.

They cut their way through in some places, evaded other posts by taking blind mountain passes. Their loss is trifling. Among the prisoners captured is the notorious Handy Lane, who boasts of having killed over 100 Union citizens with his own hands.

Bowles' Analysis of Red China: Agriculture Can't Feed People

BY MAX FREEDMAN

When Ambassador Chester Bowles went to Delhi University a few days ago to analyze economic conditions in China, he had available to him the best evidence on this subject in the possession of the American and Indian governments.

Freedman

His somber review showed that the Peking government had pushed China by ruthless methods into spectacular industrial progress. But then came the terrible recoil. The ruthlessness continued, but it simply widened the damage. For the policies of the government were wrong and destructive. Russia's withdrawal of aid added new burdens to the broken Chinese economy. Now China has become "the only country in the world in which total production has actually decreased."

In Asia not so long ago it was common to hear people say that China had obtained industrial efficiency at the price of personal freedom. The current evidence suggests that China has forfeited freedom without gaining actual efficiency. It is a reasonable as-

The first three winners in the monthly match of the Boys Brigade Rifle Club were Clifford Hoppe with a 94 score out of a possible 100, Jim Steffen with 91 points, and Donald Kuchenbecker with 86.

Walter J. Dombrowski, Menasha, brought a noteworthy championship crown to his city when his homing pigeon entries won the grand championship at the Manitowoc Pigeon Show.

Kenneth Natzke, route 2, Black Creek, was elected president of the Wisconsin Farm Bureau Rural Youth Council at a meeting in Madison. He represented the Outagamie County Rural Older Youth Group, which he helped found in 1950.

Officers of the Hortonville High School Chapter of the Future Homemakers Association (FHA) included Janice Ratzburg, president, Kate Woods, vice president, Joan Graef, treasurer, Marlene Loos, parliamentarian, Audrey Deimer, song leader, Jean Sommers, Jeannine McNichols and Jean Wickesburg.

sumption now that India over the years will be able to achieve greater industrial growth by the methods of freedom than China will achieve by the methods of tyranny. Of course, India will need help from the outside, primarily from the United States. That help will surely be given in generous measure, for the significance of the economic contest between India and China is too well known for the Western countries to permit a Chinese victory by their default.

NO PROGRESS ON FOOD
But it is his review of farm conditions inside China that makes Mr. Bowles' report most instructive and devastating.

He points out that between 1952-60 the production of food grains showed almost no progress even though China's population grew at the rate of twelve to fifteen million a year. The food deficit, using the figures of 1958 for consumption, had grown to fifteen million tons by 1962. So long as the population continues to grow at the present rate, the deficit each year will increase by about five million tons.

Mr. Bowles interprets these grim figures to mean that in a favorable year China's food supply will be barely adequate to feed her people. Serious shortages will occur in a normal year. In a bad year widespread malnutrition will take its toll.

At present China is using only 14 per cent of her total land. It is extremely unlikely that the Peking government can increase the present arable areas by more than 20 per cent. Most of the new acreage would be poor land with a low yield. Thus there can be no solution by a forced expansion of acreage.

Nor is the solution brought much closer by the greater use of chemical fertilizer, the method favored by Mr. Khrushchev for Russia's farm problems. China's current production of chemical fertilizers stands at three million tons annually. To raise this figure by an additional five million tons over the next six or ten years would cost six hundred dollars. This growth could be achieved only by building what amounted to an entirely new industry and by diverting need-ed skills and electric power from other parts of the Chinese economy.

CAN'T MATCH POPULATION
We know that each pound of chemical fertilizer produces about three extra pounds of food. Thus an additional five million tons of fertilizer would produce fifteen million tons of food, or enough to feed forty-five million people. But the new fertilizer plants could never be finished before 1970 even under an emergency program; and by that time there will be another hundred million Chinese to feed under the present rate of population increase.

Under the compulsion of necessity China may devise new methods for bringing marginal land into cultivation. Irrigation may bring abundant rewards. The quality of seeds may be improved. Perhaps the increase in population will gradually be brought into balance. The genius and tenacity of the Chinese people alike forbid the premature conclusion that the breakdown in agriculture cannot ultimately be repaired.

But what of the visible future, say the next ten years? It is hard to believe that Mr. Bowles is wrong when he declares that even under the most favorable conditions it seems unlikely that the "Chinese government can produce an adequate supply of food for its people from the land now within its boundaries. If this judgment is correct it may prove to be one of the most decisive political facts of our time."

For China, though Mr. Bowles refrains from emphasizing this point, may decide to solve her problem by enlarging the land under her control, becoming a still more troublesome and aggressive neighbor in Asia.

State Democrats Will Go All Out for LBJ; Mate the Big Question

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON—With a willingness to accommodate themselves to the inevitable that is the hallmark of the serious politician, Wisconsin Democratic party leaders are preparing to rally behind the standard of President Lyndon Johnson in the campaigns of 1964.

Wyngaard

Already there is talk that there will be a Johnson slate in the presidential preference primary here in the spring, instead of the "favorite son" stand-in device that had been tentatively planned in connection with the reelection candidacy of the late President Kennedy.

As the Democrats assessed the situation earlier, Mr. Kennedy had more to lose from the early announcement of his candidacy that would be required in a Wisconsin filing than he had to gain.

But the Johnson campaign appraisal may very well be different. He needs the exposure, as he is showing by his practical application to campaign strategy at this early date. He faces the problem also of overcoming the latent reserve among the northern liberal branch of his party, of which the Wisconsin Democratic party is probably typical. A good campaign with a respectable vote in the early spring in this state which has always had nationally publicized primaries would have more assets than liabilities, as the local party men see it.

There has been an assumption in some quarters that because President Kennedy had a close contact with the Wisconsin Democratic machine through his successful stumping here for delegates steps years ago that there will be some difficulties in liaison with the administration under Mr. Johnson.

It may very well be, as one of Patrick Lucey's critics remarked here the other day, that the Lucey circle will no longer have a key to the back door of the White House.

But that does not suggest that the new President won't want supporters here and won't be inclined to welcome backers where he can get them. In fact, precisely because he has a comparatively minor personal acquaintance in Wisconsin he will be the more eager to work with the party organization as it is, and without regard to its past loyalties and preferences.

The only prospect of friction with respect to the 1964 Johnson reelection campaign will be in the selection of a running-mate.

Already there are signs of divergent views on the point. What may be called the Lucey-Reynolds faction will be inclined to support Robert Kennedy, Sen. Gaylord Nelson, who has a considerable following in his state party organization, has already said he would prefer Sen. Humphrey, all other things being equal. Sen. Proxmire, the other ranking man of the state party, is not likely to become involved in such matters. His own biggest concern, as he has indicated many times, is to pave the path to his own reelection and he is not interested in unnecessary diversions.

FRICITION

Yet the choice of a running-mate, in the unwritten political party rule, is the prerequisite of the presidential nomination and Mr. Johnson is not likely to make that decision until he has his own nomination assured. Surely he would not be inclined to express even a preference as early as March, when he will be required to list his delegates here if he proposes to run in the Wisconsin primary.

The normal method of operation would be to work with the state organization in the selection of a delegate slate, pledged to the nomination of Mr. Johnson.

In the normal course of events they would be inclined to support the wishes of the presidential nominee, and if released from that implicit obligation, to vote for vice president according to their own definitions of what is best for the party ticket in their own districts or their own state. Since Gov. Reynolds would have most to gain or lose from the palatability of the national ticket, he may have a good deal of influence on the decision in the end.

Strictly Personal

Kennedy's Death Had Personal Impact for All

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Now that the initial shock has passed away, and the emotional numbness has worn off, perhaps we can begin to see a little more clearly the deeper feelings that were so stirred up by the murder of John Kennedy.

Harris

Beyond the sense of horror and outrage and pity, beyond the political and social and historical insult to our system, his assassination cut into the depth of our being also for another reason that may possibly tell us a good deal about ourselves and our unconscious view of human life in America in the 20th century.

For here was the man who had everything — brains, ability, charm, youth, looks, money, family, power, fame, international respect even from his enemies. He seemed, in a way, immortal, the living embodiment of the American Dream.

And then, quite literally in the twinkling of an eye, he was no more. Gone, utterly gone, this bold and vital young man who only a moment before had been smiling and waving at the crowd. Done to death by an insignificant madman, in a tragedy that a dozen different "ifs" might have prevented.

Somehow, we had seemed to believe that we might be able to cheat Death. If we were rich enough and strong enough and smart enough — and, most of all, young enough — death might not dare to touch us, at least so frivolously, so wantonly, so insanely.

We may have grown up a little, as a people in that moment; we may have begun to acquire what Europe and the rest of the world have long accepted as "the human condition" — a sense of the tragic that is not morbid or fatalistic, but mature and more accepting of man's limitations and the dark contingencies of nature.

If this could happen to President Kennedy, it could happen to each and any of us, tomorrow, tonight, the next minute. Of course, everyone has known this, in an abstract way; but not in an existential way. This is why we refused to believe it at first — could it happen here, now, to us, to such a man?

All these attributes — brains, ability, charm, youth, looks, money, family power, fame — cannot avert one bullet, one blow-out, one step in the dark. We cannot buy our way out. No matter how strong, how young, how rich, we are subject to the same caprices of fate as the Hindu beggar and the Zulu tribesman.

We mourned his death as a tragedy to him and to the nation; but were we also mourning the death of an illusion long and secretly held by us?

He Has a Helper

No Time for Johnson To Write His Speeches

BY J. W. DAVIS
WASHINGTON (AP) — Lyndon B. Johnson can do more things than most people. He is a ball of fire, a one-man gang, which Kennedy wrote before he became president.
Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona provides another example.
After paying thanks to a long list of those for whose help he was grateful, Goldwater said he did the first draft of his book "Why Not Victory?", but added: "I can't find time to write his own speeches, all by himself."
The President's associates have disclosed that Theodore C. Sorensen, who also was speech writer for President John F. Kennedy on occasion, helped Johnson write his first address to Congress.
This is no slam at Johnson. The business of a presidential ghost writer has ancient and honorable antecedents. For example, Alexander Hamilton had a ghostly hand in the writing of George Washington's famous farewell address.
Main Job
A president who pays attention to his main job just doesn't have time to make the research and do the word-polishing that a speech requires.
Lots of other public officials, and men in private enterprise too, have turned to ghosts to help them with their speeches, and their other writing. Sorensen helped in the research for the book "Profiles of Courage," which Kennedy wrote before he became president.
Polishing Prose
"The way I look at it, polishing my prose is not something on which I can spend a lot of time, as enjoyable as that is. For the proper expression of the result of that labor, I, for one, depend on those I have mentioned — helpers, ghosts, call them what you will. They are an indispensable part of politics and writing."
Sorensen once said of his teamwork with Kennedy:
"I know so well what he wants to say and how he would say it that he and I can't tell where he leaves off and I leave on."
Incidentally, as for tools of the trade, a visitor to Sorensen's office noted these books on his desk: "A Treasury of Great Speeches," Bartlett's "Familiar Quotations" and "10,000 Jokes and Stories."
A speech has to have more than just style. It has to be delivered well.
As Gen. Hugh (Iron Pants) Johnson of the Franklin D. Roosevelt era said:
"No ghost writer ever permanently made a political silk purse out of an oratorical sow's ear."

ban, but Johnson protested, the Senate refused to include the ban in the bill, and a Senate-House conference committee eliminated it in drafting a compromise measure.

But in a long session that didn't break up until before dawn Saturday, Republicans caught the Democratic majority with its ranks slashed by absenteeism and succeeded in forcing the measure back to the conference committee, insisting that the credit ban be included.

A further compromise was reached. This one states that the President can approve credit for sales to Communist countries if he found it in "the national interest" and reported each deal to Congress within 30 days.

If the Rules Committee sends the measure to the floor today, the bill will have to lay over for 24 hours—unless two-thirds of the representatives present and voting approve taking it up without the delay.

With the measure tangled in the House, Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield of Montana sent the senators home. Although he scheduled token meetings for Tuesday and Friday, he promised that no business would be conducted this week.

However, Mansfield and Republican leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois said that if the House does act they will attempt to round up a majority to complete final action on the aid measure.

Story Shaping About Scranton

tional "not me" posture at this stage of the proceedings. Others believe Scranton hasn't made a decision.

One Certainty

But one thing is certain: With the death of President Kennedy, the Republican outlook for 1964 changed sharply. One change has been to focus a spotlight on Scranton. His discussion with Eisenhower intensifies the glare. The governor is much more in the picture today than he was a month ago.

If the late John F. Kennedy established a new image of the modern politician, Scranton fits nearly into it.

He is 46, tall, slim, young-looking, with dark hair and bright brown eyes. He has a big grin, a puckish sense of humor, and an easy, informal charm. Like the late President, he gives the impression of a cool man, possessed of marble calm.

Yale Graduate

He is Yale '39 and a graduate of Yale Law School. His associates call him "a learner," who soaks up facts in a hurry and retains them.

He married a childhood sweetheart, the former Mary L. Chamberlin. She has been a formidable campaigner. Their children are Susan, 17, (born Christmas day), William, 16, John, 13, and Peter, 9.

The Scranton family has been wealthy for generations. As a businessman, he has had experience in banks, railroads, a textbook publishing firm, radio and television stations. He established a record for community service with "Operation Bootstrap," a plan he formulated to help depressed areas of Pennsylvania.

In asserting that he doesn't want the presidency, Scranton says

Leadership Needed

"This is a big job in Pennsylvania. I feel there is a need for leadership and I hope I'm giving it."

"I didn't want to make a career of this business (politics). I never have had a messianic feeling about it."

"I have been close enough to the White House to see what a tremendous, awesome job it is. As a special assistant to former Secretary of State Christian Herter in 1959, Scranton attended White House conferences.

Being in the White House is tough on families. My children are in their formative years, company's passenger director. They are beyond the very young age, but not old enough to be married and have lives of their own. So this does make an impression on them."

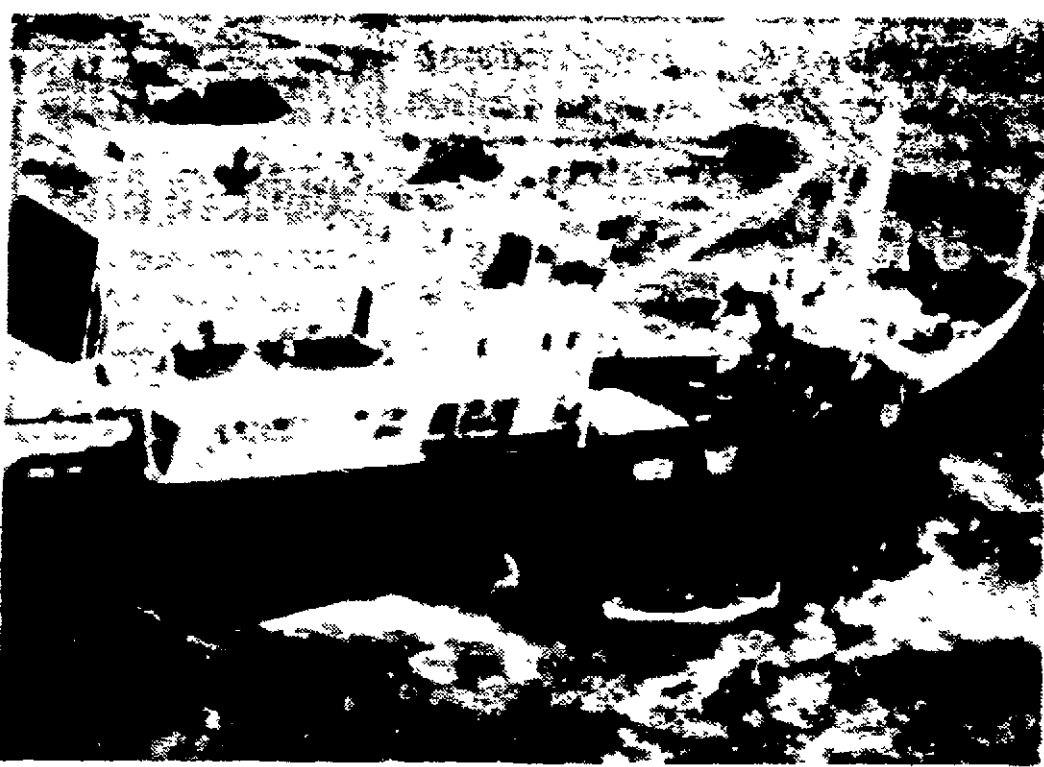

Why not end all the speculation with a "Sherman" type statement? "Gen Sherman said, 'If nominated, I will not run, if elected I will not serve.'"

"America is in a different position now than it was in Sherman's day," Scranton said. "No decent, patriotic American could take that position today."

casualties. It said "the 100 were wearing life jackets but all appeared to be dead."

Radio messages told of the dramatic rescue. The master of the British Tanker Montcalm, Capt. E. J. Kempton, an Englishman, reported:

"There are a lot of people in the water around the burning vessel. We are picking up as many as possible."

"The vessel was on fire everywhere except for the aft portion," said a radio message from one of three planes from the U.S. 57th Air Rescue Squadron based in the Azores.

Planes Drop Rafts

"Survivors are in lifeboats and life rafts which have been dropped by U.S. Air Force aircraft. Four vessels are in the area and are picking up survivors. About 60 per cent have been picked up so far."

"However, there are many survivors still in the water. The weather in the area is reported good."

Other accounts told of hundreds hauled from lifeboats and from the sea onto the decks of ships.

The line's spokesman in London said it appeared about 470 persons had been rescued thus far. At that time, radio messages from the scene indicated the total saved was considerably higher.

The British liner Stratheden radioed she had picked up 300 survivors, some injured, plus some dead. The Argentine freighter Salta was alternately reported to have from 220 to 400 survivors. The British Montcalm said it had 100 survivors and the Argentine liner Rio Grande another 50.

"Terrible Anxiety"

The Salta raced as hard as her engines would pound for Funchal in Madeira. The British consul at Funchal said: "There is terrible anxiety here. There were several British schoolboys aboard who were coming from England to spend Christmas with their parents who are resident business folk in the Madeira Islands."

Some passengers were newlyweds. Others were retired people seeking a sunshine Christmas holiday. The adult passengers had been singing, dancing and walking arm and arm on the deck when the fire erupted and forced them to scramble into lifeboats or plunge into the sea.

The passengers left Southampton last Thursday for a cruise to Madeira, Tenerife and the Canary Islands, in the Atlantic off northwest Africa.

First Message

Then shortly before midnight came the first ominous wireless message telling of fire aboard. It was followed early this morning by this final anguished message:

"SOS from Lakonia. Last time I cannot stay any more in the wireless cabin. We are leaving the ship. Please help immediately."

In London, worried relatives and friends flooded the offices of Ormas Shipping Co. Ltd. with phone calls. R. J. Atkins, the company's passenger director, said the liner was "fully equipped with lifeboats and other equipment and everything was in working order."

The captain, Mabo Zarbis, an

Front, said such activity would be "an unwarranted provocation on the part of the American government. Now they have brought the cold war into the Indian Ocean."

K. M. P. Rajaratne, leader of the National Resurgence Movement, said entry of the 7th Fleet into the Indian Ocean will complete "the encirclement of Asia."

they had plenty of time to leave the building because the fire was confined to the lounge."

"In fact, we went back into the building and were standing in the office when the clerk called the owner, William Rutherford, who was in Milwaukee. She was just telling him not to worry because the fire was only in the barroom when I noticed a smoke start pouring down the hallway."

Firemen arrived, but they were apparently reluctant to enter the building because it was heated by gas. Then the furnace exploded and the fire seemed to follow the gas lines of the one-story structure sending it all up in flames, Mrs. Sanders said.

Others Earlier

Mrs. Sanders said several other couples had been at the cocktail lounge earlier in the evening. The bartender had locked the lounge and had gone to his apartment just across the road. Mr. and Mrs. Sanders were given a room at the apartment house after the fire.

Fire departments from Cleveland, Newton and Haven fought the blaze in the 10 degree weather. Firemen were still pouring water on the building at midnight.

The Lakonia, owned by the General Steamship Co. Ltd. of Greece, was formerly the Dutch liner Johan van Oldenbarnevelt. She was built in Amsterdam in 1930 and was refitted early this year.

The liner's passenger capacity was more than 1,500 persons, with rescue facilities for about 1,400 passengers in 24 lifeboats of different sizes, a line spokesman said.

Lucey's Name Occurs in Aligning Possible State Democrat Ticket

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — Early discussions among top Wisconsin Democrats about building a ticket of candidates for state office this year include some speculations about the availability of Patrick J. Lucey, the Madison realtor and former chairman of the state party committee, as a candidate for lieutenant governor.

Gov. Reynolds, as a candidate for re-election, would welcome his good friend Lucey as a running-mate, according to reliable sources.

The idea implicit in such a combination is that if the ticket is successful Lucey would be in line to run for the governorship later.

A hard-fisted partisan, Lucey is devoted to politics but has thus far been unable to reconcile his love for political combat with the opportunities and requirements in the development of his private business.

Native Son

When Gaylord Nelson became governor of Wisconsin five years ago he also became the most distinguished living native son of the tiny village of Clear Lake, in Polk county, which responded by erecting a sign-board on the highway entering the community.

"Clear Lake — Home of Gaylord A. Nelson," the sign boasts. But now, according to Roy Kubista of the State Employees Association who passed it recently, some wag has added in big letters "and Bill Barthelmann". Who is Barthelmann, Kubista wants to know.

There are lawyers in Wisconsin who favor some modification of the system of an elective judiciary and have boomed the so-called "Missouri" plan, under which men would be appointed to the bench in the first instance, and then run on their records for new terms.

But there are at least two prominent lawyers who are not yet persuaded of popular backing. Harry Larsen of Superior, candidate for the supreme court, and Judge Horace Wilkie of that court who will run for a full term in his seat in the spring election, have agreed that they want to continue an elective judiciary.

Stepping Stone

Men who become attorney general of Wisconsin have relatively few opportunities to involve themselves in the major state-wide political issues. Yet more of them are aware that the office has been an effective place from which to rise in state politics.

Attorney General George Thompson is aware of the political promotion value of his office and is apparently now scouting for material outside the legalistic routine of his department with which to attract favorable public notice. One of the issues to which he is giving increasing attention is outdoors resources management and conservation, which others before him have found has a sure-fire publicity and promotion value.

The cigarette puffing of the Wisconsin body politic continues to represent one of the major tax bulwarks of the state treasury. It is probably not generally known but the cigarette excise tax is more productive than some of the other levies that have been on the books longer. During the last fiscal year, for example, the gross receipts of state cigarette taxation amounted to slightly more than $26 million. But liquor and beer taxes together brought in only about $15 million and inheritance and gift taxes only about $19 million.

AAA Opposition

One of the major political problems faced by the state administration in coaxing support for its highway bonding proposal was the obdurate opposition of the American Automobile Association.

The AAA has a public identity as the voice of the private motorist and has insistently repeated its position that it wants highway improvements, but on a pay-as-you-go basis, and would not support a bond issue for such construction acceleration under any circumstances.

Arvid Knudtson, for the last several years the chief professional voice in the economics section of the Wisconsin Council of Agriculture, has resigned to take a banking job in Minneapolis.

The veteran chief of the Council, Milo K. Swanton, remains on duty as one of the agricultural spokesmen in state affairs. Few men in Wisconsin have been as active in public life for such a long period.

Although little has been said about it lately, it is now generally believed that Rep. Lester Johnson of Black River Falls will choose to run in the revised 10th district, against Rep. Alvin O'Konski, rather than in the third, against Rep. Vernon W. Thomson.

Johnson must test his stature as the chief rural spokesman of Wisconsin Democrats in a new district in 1964 because of the congressional reapportionment act adopted by the legislature which wiped out his old ninth district. O'Konski has already and shrewdly recognized the kind of a campaign Johnson will wage and has been emphasizing farm policy issues in speeches and public statements lately.

The road building contractors of the state are seething with resentment because of their conviction that it was Warren Knowles, the Republican candidate for the governorship, who provided the cue upon which the Republican legislative majorities referred Gov. Reynolds' highway bonding program to a referendum vote next spring.

As the contractors see it, the program will risk popular repudiation if the electorate is given a chance to vote on it because the question on the ballot will include an increase in the motor fuel tax.

Some Head Injuries Worse Than Fracture

BY JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: My eight-year-old son was hurt when his sled hit a pole, and he fractured his skull. The X-rays show a crack from the corner of the eye up into the head.

My doctor is good but doesn't have time to answer all my questions. I asked if the crack would close and he said it may remain there. Does this mean he will always have a weak spot?

Can he resume normal activities? He's an active child. His reflexes and alertness are good. enough energy so that the brain cracked bone, like any bone, will case.

What is a fracture, and could there be danger from it in the future? Football, etc.? I worry terribly.

MRS. V. G. Relax. You're already past the worry time.

It is entirely possible for some head injuries without fracture to be worse than skull fractures. This may sound odd, but it's true.

A "fracture" is a break — as simple as that. A fractured leg is a broken one. It can be anything from a complete break to a small crack.

But remember this: The skull isn't just a big bone, and its purpose is to protect the brain. Of course, a fracture of the skull is a broken one. The skull was cracked instead. Too full answer. But your doctor can't tell you the difference between a skull fracture and a skull crack. The depending on your particular case.

Ways of Judging

There are many quick ways of judging the effect of a blow to the head: How do the eyes look? Can the boy answer simple questions or is he confused or "disoriented"? Can he close his eyes and still retain his equilibrium? Many such tests can be performed in a few seconds, as is done every weekend when football players are jarred treatment (not surgery) on the field.

In your boy's case, the skull wasn't depressed — it wasn't sometimes maybe, and there are so many factors to consider. The that I can't give you a meaningful answer. But your doctor can't tell you the difference between a skull fracture and a skull crack. The depending on your particular case.

Sometimes yes, sometimes no. Dr. Molner welcomes all readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible. (Copyright 1963)

Dear Dr. Molner: My wife had an operation leaving her with a colostomy. Can this be corrected later?

G. V. LONDON (AP)—An authoritative reference book on aviation suggested that the United States and Russia have attained a measure of equality in space rocketry.

The latest edition of "Jane's All the World's Aircraft" said Russia's space program in the past year has not gone with its customary smoothness.

The book suggested the Russians had failed to achieve orbital rendezvous with their "space twin" flight. "By comparison," Jane's said "America's Mercury maneuver program far exceeded its original — more limited — design objectives with the final 22-orbit flight of Gordon Cooper, while the Mariner 2 space probe sent back invaluable, if depressing, data concerning conditions on the planet Venus."

British Reference Book Says Soviets, U. S. Equal in Space

The colostomy was necessary because of the unavoidable removal of part of the colon. It may be permanent or temporary. A temporary colostomy can be corrected by another operation. Your surgeon can answer your question.

Attention all women! For the pamphlet, "The Pre-Menstrual Blues," write to Dr. Molner in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long, self-addressed stamped envelope and 5 cents in coin to cover handling. This pamphlet may help you!
